Stanhope faces final airport funding hurdle

by LEN PIZZEY

Editor

Stanhope council is optimistic that improvements to the municipality's airport will be funded in 1988, after meeting last Wednesday with federal transport ministry representative Rene Vienneau.

Improvements to the airport have been in the bureaucratic mill for 10 years, but an environmental evaluation study to be completed by the end of March should be the final one before a decision on Stanhope's funding request is made, Vienneau told council.

"Once the environmental evaluation is completed it's yes or no, and that's the end of it, and I would hope that it will be yes," Vienneau said.

Stanhope completed its first master plan for the airport in 1978. The plan suggested various improvements, but was never acted upon because no federal assistance was available at the time. In 1984 the master plan was updated and a formal request for funds was submitted to federal authorities. The firm of Marshal Macklin Monaghan completed an engineering and design plan with provincial funding assistance. Various problems with the proposal and the site were identified, and by November of last year, all of them had been resolved, according to a report prepared by clerk Gerald Bain.

While Vienneau was careful to point out that the final decision on Stanhope's request for close to $1 million in federal assistance will rest with Transport Minister John Crosbie, he said if he thought the answer was 'no', he would not have been at last Thursday's meeting.

"I think I would look at (the request for one final study) very positively," Vienneau said.

He urged councillors to persevere in trying to get the airport upgraded, despite the setbacks that have been encountered along the way and the fact that the effort may not, in the end, be successful.

"Don't give up. It always pays off," he said, adding that the technical problems to be addressed in the environmental study "are not insurmountable."

Councillor Jock Mavor expressed council's exasperation at the number of hurdles the township's airport plan has faced over the years.

"I see this need for another study as yet another stopgap measure," Mavor told Vienneau. "We are

HHSS principal resigns in surprise move

In a move that surprised trustees and staff, Haliburton high school principal Andy Hemphill has announced he will step down from the job at the end of June.

Hemphill will complete a three year 'secondment' from the Scarborough Board of Education in June. It was arranged when former principal Dale Robinson was appointed curriculum co-ordinator in 1985. The board had been prepared to offer Hemphill a permanent appointment as principal at HHSS, but he declined it in closed discussions with the board last Tuesday. The matter was not considered publicly so Hemphill could inform HHSS staff the next day.

Hemphill said in an interview that he declined the permanent appointment for personal reasons he did not wish to elaborate on, and that he is being "non specific" about his future plans pending further discussions with the Scarborough board.

It is expected the Haliburton County Board will begin steps to find a replacement for Hemphill at a meeting in January. The search may extend province-wide, as it did when Hemphill was selected to replace Robinson, or the board could decide to advertise the opening only within the local system.

Lynn Craigmyle to chair County board of education

Lynn Craigmyle has been appointed chairman of the Haliburton County Board of Education for the next 12 months.

Craigmyle, one of four Dysart et al trustees, took over the chair last Tuesday night, replacing Dorset trustee David Villard, who completed his one year term as head of the board in October.

Wendy Ladurantaye, a trustee from Minden serving her first term on the board, was appointed vice chairman.

Craigmyle moves up to the chairman's position after a year as vice chairman under Villard. Ladurantaye has been active on a number of the board's committee since being elected a trustee in 1985.

In handing over the gavel to Craigmyle, Villard thanked trustees and administrators who he said helped make his year as chairman "an easy and successful one." He paid special tribute to Joan Fennell, executive secretary in the board office, for her contribution.

"I don't think a chairman could survive without somebody like Joan to count on," he said.

Craigmyle was first elected to the Haliburton County board in 1985 but he has been a trustee since 1983, when he was appointed to fill position left open when Dr. Blair Pierce moved to London, Ontario.

In an interview, Craigmyle said he views the position of chairman as a way of making a contribution to local life.

"I look at any involvement with the board as a way of giving some time and effort back to the community," he said.

One important issue Craigmyle hopes to see resolved during his term concerns smoking. The board is moving toward designating all schools in the county a 'smoke free' environment. When the policy comes into effect, employees will not be allowed to smoke anywhere in the schools. To help smokers cope with the regulation, the board will

Board agrees Victoria Street will close if grant approved

by LEN PIZZEY

Editor

Has the board decided to close Victoria Street school if the province backs a request for more classroom space in the community, or could money be spent to renovate and enlarge the aging building? That question was on trustees' minds last Tuesday as they established committees to deal with the expansion issue in Haliburton and Minden.

It was clear that while the final decision technically has not been made, and will not be until a capital allocation from the province is approved, the majority of trustees believe any new classrooms in Haliburton should be added to the Hodgson school, not Victoria Street. If that view prevails, the old school eventually will be abandoned and used for other community purposes, which could include additional space for Sir Sandford Fleming College and School of Fine Arts courses.

Trustee Len Salvatori brought the issue to the table last Tuesday when the board considered the need for 'school accommodation committees' in Haliburton and Minden. Salvatori said he saw no point in forming a Haliburton committee when it was the consensus of the board that no new funds should be spent on Victoria Street.

Trustee Cheryl Murdoch backed up Salvatori's position. She said that when the board instructed business administrator Jim Bradley to submit a capital allocation request to the Ministry of Education, she understood it was for additional classroom space at J. Douglas Hodgson Elementary School.

Chairman Lynn Craigmyle sought a consensus, asking each trustee in turn if it was their view that Victoria Street School would be phased out if capital grants for new classrooms in Haliburton are approved.

Trustee Nancy Stinson said she agreed with Salvatori's view that the decision to add new space at Hodgson school had been made.

Ross Anderson said the capital forecast information was not, in his view, a final decision, although he concurred that the intent of the board is to put an addition on the Hodgson school.

Cecile Billings also said she understood from earlier discussions that the board has agreed on an intention to add to the Hodgson facility.

The view of Minden trustee and vice chairman of the board, Wendy Ladurantaye, was that while the final decision "is not etched in stone" the capital forecast scenario was that Victoria Street School would be

Board of Education hold final meeting of '87

The Haliburton County Board of Education met last Tuesday and dealt with the following matters: Trustees had considered the need to fill the position of Principal of the Secondary School at the end of Andy Hemphill's three year secondment from the Scarborough Board of Education on August 31, 1988. The members offered Hemphill a permanent contract for the position commencing September 1, 1988. After consideration, Hemphill declined the offer for personal reasons. (It was requested that this information not be released until such time as Hemphill could speak with the staff of the secondary school. This request was granted.)

Stuart Baker, Director of Education, took the Chair and conducted the election for the position of Chairman of the Board for the year 1988.

Lynn Craigmyle was declared Chairman of the Board for the year 1988, by acclamation.

David Villard thanked the trustees and administrative staff for the support and encouragement he had received throughout a successful year as Chairman.

Lynn Craigmyle then assumed the Chair and proceeded with the election of Vice-Chairperson for the year 1988.

Wendy Ladurantaye was declared Vice-Chairperson of the Board by acclamation.

At the request of Andrew Hemphill, Doug Mitchell supplied the Board members with information concerning the possible purchase/lease of new electronic typewriters to re-equip the Typing Room at the secondary school. The Business Administrator was directed to review the information and proceed with acquiring the typewriters before the end of December 1987.

Jim Bradley reported on the ongoing problems with the well at the Victoria Street School. He was directed to take the necessary action to have a well drilled on the property as soon as possible.

Bradley also reported that the suspended ceiling in the gym at the Archie Stouffer School has been removed for safety reasons. The lighting is now being upgraded.

The Board will renew the insurance coverage with Frank Cowen Company, through Dawson Insurance, with the addition of coverage for the portable classrooms and an increase in the accident insurance for the year 1988.

The annual report of the Director of Education for the school year 1986/87 was accepted as printed.

The special projects building committee met with the architect during the month to review the preliminary plans for the Library Resource Centre at the secondary school. The reports from the structural, electrical and mechanical engineers were received and no major difficulties were noted. A sub-committee also met during the month regarding direction to the architect for renovations. Their findings have been reported to the architect. The next meeting of the committee will be held on Wednesday December 9, 1987.

A second meeting was held with C.U.P.E.

representatives, on December 4. Negotiations continued on Thursday December 10, 1987.

Wendy Ladurantaye reported that the initial meeting of an ad hoc committee on the Young Offender's Act was held on December 3. Constable Mike Maybee, Community Services Officer for the Ontario Provincial Police, made a presentation to the committee. The Young Offenders' Act and the Child and Family Services Act were reviewed. It was decided that Constable Maybee would be invited to attend the January principals' meeting to assist with the review of these two acts and the implications for school systems. A representative from the Children's Aid Society will also be invited.

Questions arising from the Elementary School Teachers' Liaison Committee report of November 24, 1987, were considered.

The Board agreed to increase the number of meetings from two to three per year. One meeting will be held each term: Fall, Winter Spring.

The Business Administrator was directed to determine the cost of supplying a two line phone system at the Victoria Street School to replace the one line system. This will be considered when the Board prepares its budget for 1988.

Stuart Baker was requested to invite the principals of the Archie Stouffer and J.D. Hodgson school to attend the January Board meeting to review the need for extra secretarial time.

The Board approved the revised policy and regulations statement for teacher evaluation process: elementary panel. This Board policy will be effective as of January 1, 1988.

It also approved the policy and regulation statement on the selection process for positions of added responsibility: elementary panel. This policy will be effective as of January 1, 1988.

Each trustee submitted a list of preferred committee choices for the coming year. The Chairman will prepare committee lists for distribution at the January meeting.

The Board decided to establish accommodation committees for the villages of Haliburton and Minden. Membership will be as follows: Minden—Wendy Ladurantaye, Chairperson, David Villard, Cheryl Murdoch, School principal or designate; Haliburton Leonard Salvatori, Chairperson, Joan Sawyer, Nancy Stinson, Principal of J.D. Hodgson and Victoria Street Schools, or designates. These committees are charged with the responsibility of investigating the needs and how they can best be met. Input will be received from other groups — S.E.A.C., Home and School, staff members.

Prior to the regular business of the Board, Leonard Salvatori and Ross Anderson were honoured for their many years of service. Both have been connected with providing education for children for over 25 years. Formal certificates and long service pins were presented by Linda Mumford and Cheryl Murdoch.

The village of Haliburton is aglow with Christmas lights these days, as can be seen in this picture taken Sunday evening from the lookout at Skyline Park. The lights were softened by falling snow in this scene.

Local school needs new drilled well

A new well will be drilled at Victoria Street School in Haliburton after the old well went dry for the second time in three months two weeks ago and has not replenished itself.

Board business administrator Jim Bradley said a water tanker truck has been supplying the school at a cost of $200 a load and $10 a day stand-by since the well went dry. The well also went dry briefly in September, but recovered. In the most recent instance the well has not come back, and Bradley said there was no reason to hope that it would recover.

Dry weather in the past few months has played havoc with many local wells, and drillers have a backlog of work extending several months. But Bradley said local contractor Dennis Debler agreed to drill at Victoria Street within days of board approval.

Bradley said wells in the area of Victoria Street school range from as shallow as 90 feet with an abundance of water to as deep as 540 feet, with a barely adequate recovery rate. He told trustees to anticipate the new well at Victoria Street could cost as much as $20,000.

Trustees agreed the well had to be drilled, but asked Bradley to have it 'witched'.

While many people are skeptical of 'witching,' trustees noted that there was no harm in having it done at Victoria Street. It was reported that the shallowest wells in that part of the community had been witched, while the deepest had not.

Airport hopes boosted

beginning to find this a great frustration. It is very difficult for us on council to sustain interest on the part of volunteer citizens" of the airport committee.

The need for the airport "is no longer for a few people for a few months" but for a year round facility, Mavor said.

He said two commercial ventures are interested in making use of an upgraded airport in Stanhope "and we're not sure that we can hold their interest while the project is held in abeyance."

One development that council clearly was uneasy about was Dysart et al council's recent decision to fund a preliminary study of lands near Haliburton which council believes may be suitable for a completely new airport with a 4000 foot runway.

Such an airport would be capable of handling small private and commercial jets, as well as turboprop aircraft. Stanhope's upgrading plan calls for a 2560 foot paved strip, although the municipality owns enough appropriately zoned land at the airport site to make the runway 400 feet long if expansion was justified in the future.

Councillor Jim Harrison asked if an application from Dysart for a 4000 foot paved strip could jeopardize Stanhope's plans, Vienneau said "I would be lying to you if I said it was impossible." He advised council to submit another funding application with promised completion of the environmental assessment study as soon as possible. "You don't have to be negative about Haliburton" Vienneau said. "Don't even mention it. Just ask for what you want."

Later, Vienneau said he could not imagine "how the heck it could happen" that Dysart's plans could scuttle Stanhope's request. He said if he were asked about funding a new airport 20 miles away from an existing airport that is upgradeable "I would recommend against it."

Vienneau said council's best course of action is to work closely with local MP Bill Scott in pressing it's case for funding with Transport Canada officials. He suggested council schedule the project over two years, asking for $600,000 in 1988 and $400,000 in 1989.

The first draft of the environmental assessment study is expected to be completed by January 29 for submission to various government agencies. The final draft would be completed by March 25.

County to debate a request to help fund Kanawa study

by LEN PIZZEY

Editor

County councillors will be asked to decide this Wednesday whether to spend $12,500 as the local share of a proposed $50,000 feasibility study on the Kanawa Canoe Museum. The study, to receive 75 percent subsidy from the provincial government, would determine if a facility should be built in Haliburton to house the collection of watercraft from around the world.

The board of the Kanawa International Museum, which has title to the collection, has agreed to move the entire collection to Haliburton if a place can be found to display it.

Frank Wallace and Ross Carver, representing the Haliburton County Historical Society, brought the proposal to the county's management committee recently, and will unveil it to the rest of county council on Wednesday.

The two men have been actively promoting the Kanawa project for more than two years. A problem surrounding ownership of the collection and compensation for the man who founded it, Kirk Whipper, reportedly has been resolved. In addition, competing bids from Port Hope and other Ontario locations have been withdrawn, leaving the door open for Haliburton County to acquire the collection.

A number of major concerns will have to be addressed before the project moves much farther, however. County Warden Murray Fearrey told Dysart council on Monday that while there was some indication of support for the concept at the county management committee level, it is not yet clear how the project would be financed.

Wallace and Carver have said the money to build and operate the museum would come from corporate sponsors, as well as federal and provincial agencies. Fearrey said the two men believe corporate sponsors would make a five year commitment to meet operating costs. They are reportedly prepared to seek the sponsors, and will ask the county to meet expenses of up to $1000 for the search.

Fearrey told Dysart council that if federal, provincial and corporate funds can in fact meet all the costs of the proposed project, it is worthy of support. "Politically, it appears that there's everything to gain and nothing to lose," he said.

"The study is going to have to relate to a lot of detail," he said, "and the ownership question will have to be looked at carefully to protect everybody, including the historical society."

One concern the proposed feasibility study is expected to address is the impact the collection's presence in Haliburton would have on tourism. While it would be an added attraction for people visiting the area, Dysart councillors wondered if it would in fact attract enough new tourist visits to justify the expense involved.

Another concern touched on by Dysart councillors was long term funding, and who would be responsible should initial corporate sponsorship be withdrawn in the future.

Deputy reeve Sid Cooper said that while he would like to support the idea of housing the collection in Haliburton, there would have to be assurances that costs would not fall back in the lap of the municipality.

These and other questions are expected to be discussed when the study proposal is brought to county council Wednesday.

Two men who have been involved with education in Haliburton County for a long time were honoured last Tuesday as the board of education held its final meeting of 1987. Ross Anderson, left, and Len Salvatori, have been serving on local school boards for more than 25 years.

Victoria Street may be phased out

eliminated.

"We had a consensus; that's why (business administrator Jim Bradley) made a forecast" Salvatori reiterated.

Trustee Wayne Wood backed up Salvatori's contention. He said it would be "a waste of money" to renovate and enlarge Victoria Street.

Others who agreed were trustee's Michael Petro, Linda Mumford and Leroy Eager.

Director of Education Stuart Baker noted that it would be "a somewhat political decision" where to build new space in Haliburton if a capital grant is approved by the province. The first step is to get a commitment from the ministry, he said, and then negotiate how and where the money is to be spent. The capital forecast scenario of closing Victoria Street and building on to the Hodgson school is a directive, not a hard and fast decision, Baker said.

But Salvatori would not countenance any softening of what he viewed as the position the board took on the issue when it discussed it in depth at a meeting in November.

"I said it would be a waste of money to spend five cents on that school." "I think everyone here had the same thing in their heads."

Although it was agreed that a capital grant for new construction would mean new classrooms at Hodgson school, trustees decided school accommodation committees should be formed for Haliburton and Minden. A suggestion that the committees include members of the public was rejected.

"I don't think we should include a person from the community" trustee Leroy Eager said. "They're good resource people but they're also bleeding hearts." It is trustees who should make such a tough decision, he said.

Salvatori held fast in his view that forming a committee for Haliburton was a pointless exercise, since the board agreed on where new classrooms should be built. But Stuart Baker argued that the committee could help eliminate public unrest of the sort that ensued when the board decided to move Grade 3 classes from Victoria Street School to the Hodgson school without prior public consultation.

In the end, Salvatori agreed to serve on the Haliburton committee "because I'm not going to see that school left open if it's the last thing I do."

Others who will serve on the Haliburton committee are trustees Nancy Stinson and Joan Sawyer, and the principals of the J. Douglas Hodgson and Victoria Street schools, or their designates.

The Minden school accommodation committee will consist of Wendy Ladurantaye as chairman, past board chairman David Villard, trustee Cheryl Murdoch, and Archie Stouffer elementary principal McKay Brydon or his designate.

The committees will seek input from various groups, including school staff and the public.

Hyland administrator tenders his resignation

Hyland Crest home administrator Karl Samuelson submitted his resignation to county council's Hyland Crest committee of management last Thursday. The resignation is expected to be accepted when county council meets this Wednesday.

Warden Murray Fearrey said the resignation is effective at the end of December.

Samuelson has been administrator of the home for about a year. At the end of his probationary contract several months ago, county council dismissed him after learning he was seeking employment elsewhere. Council subsequently decided to rehire him.

Fearrey said Samuelson is well liked by the staff and residents of the home.

Council will begin advertising for his replacement immediately. Fearrey said other staff members and the committee can handle administrative duties for the brief period that may ensue between Samuelson's departure and a new administrator taking over.

Dysart wants arena lights

Haliburton's arena will get new lights over the ice surface if the municipality is successful in a bid for provincial funding assistance. At a meeting Monday, council decided to apply for funding under the Ministry of Tourism and Recreation's capital conservation program.

The ice presently is lighted by fluorescent fixtures, but these are reported to be corroding. While no firm price has been established for new lights, it is anticipated the cost could be as much as $30,000.

A choice

Haliburton County councillors will face a tough decision this Wednesday when they consider whether to contribute $12,500 to the $50,000 cost of a comprehensive study on the Kanawa Museum. The Haliburton County Historical Society, spearheaded by former Haliburton museum curator Ross Carver and history teacher Frank Wallace, has been working for more than two years to secure the Kanawa collection of canoes, kayaks and watercraft for the area, and it appears that they have at last succeeded. But a commitment from the Kanawa International Museum board to let the county display the entire collection, and the creation and maintenance of a facility to house them, are two entirely different matters. And it will be county council's first priority to decide if local dollars should be spent to determine if the collection can, in fact, find a home in Haliburton.

There is no doubt that a museum to display the Kanawa collection would be a valuable addition to the area. The key question to be answered however, is whether it would be an asset or a liability on municipal and county balance sheets. For no matter how attractive the prospect of having the collection stay in the area may be, it is dollars and cents that ultimately must influence local politicians' decisions.

No one wants to be negative about the dream of having the collection here — a dream that Frank Wallace and Ross Carver have pursued selflessly and in the public interest for a long time — but serious questions must be posed and answered first by county councillors, and later, if funding is provided for the study, by the consultants hired to carry it out.

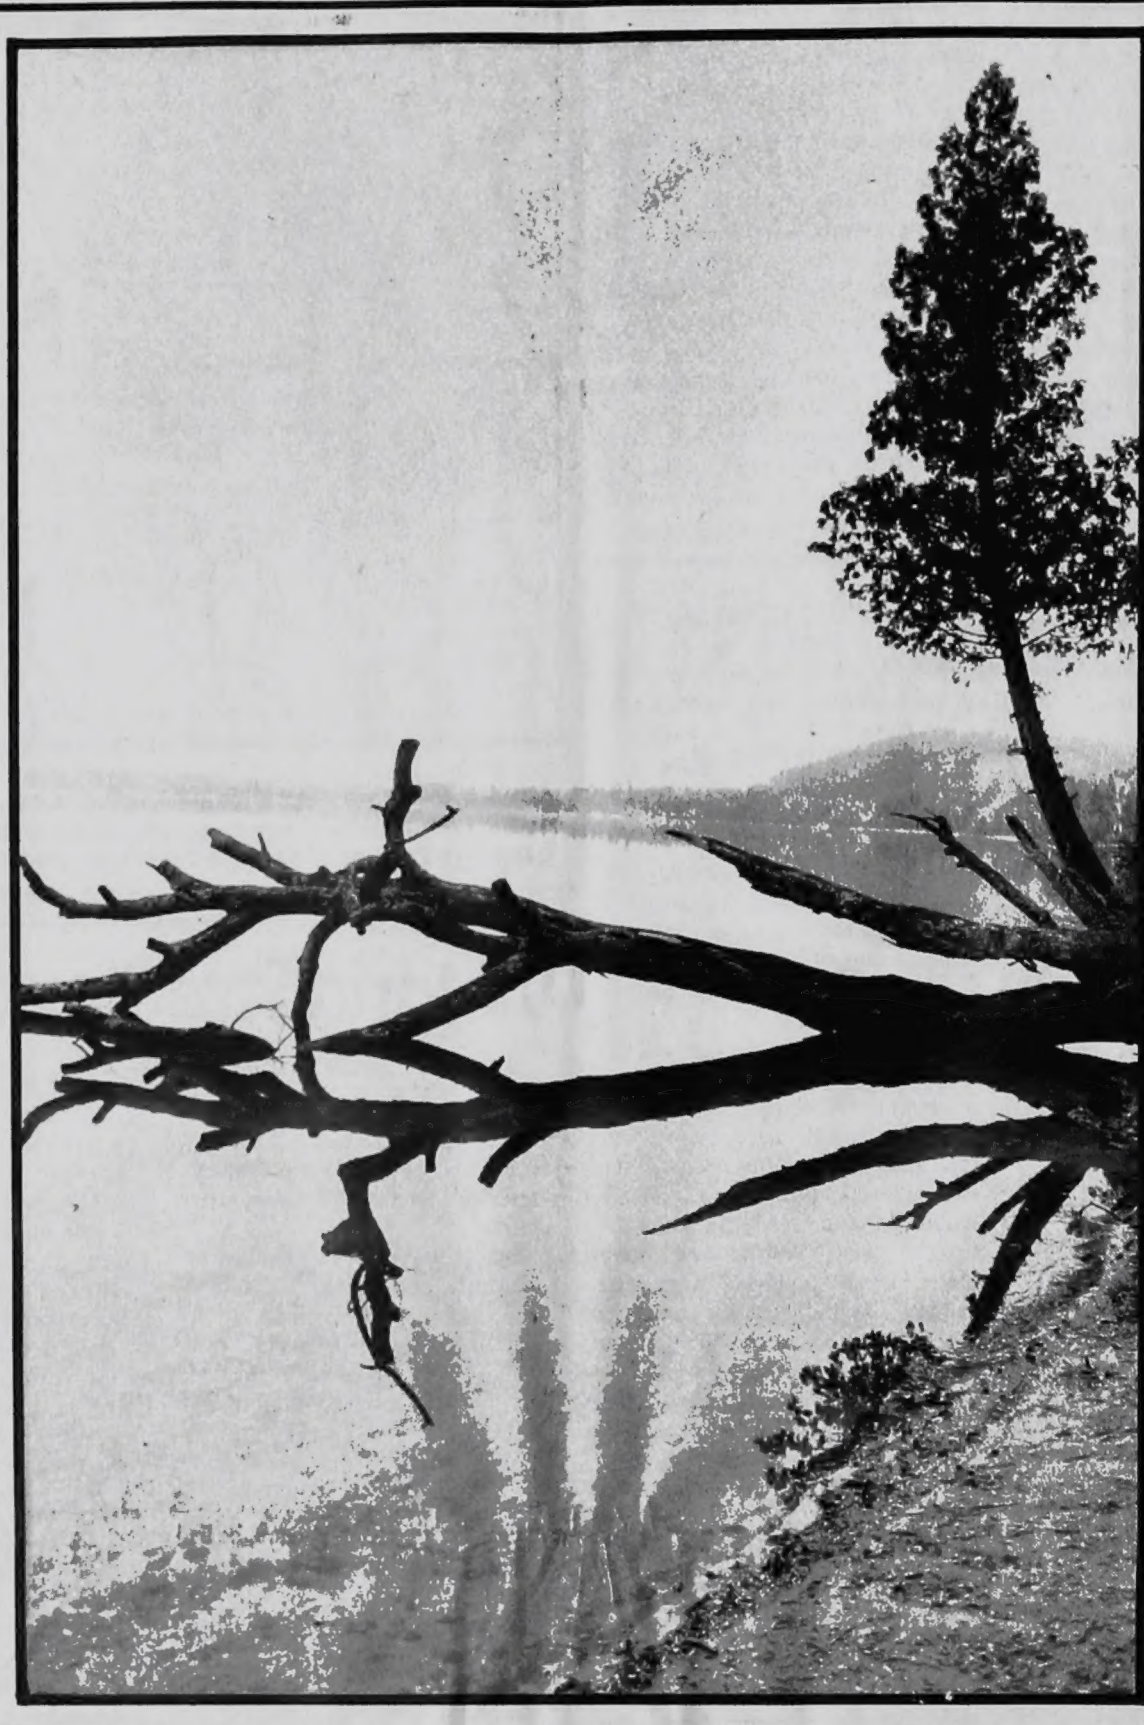

If the collection truly is 'world class', to repeat a much overused phrase, then why has Toronto's Harbourfront, Ottawa's major museums, and even Port Hope, abandoned any thought of obtaining it? And if it is as significant as its exponents have claimed, why have so few people made the effort to see it at its former location beside Camp Kandalore in Stanhope Township over the years? It has been suggested that the new museum could be built entirely by provincial and federal contributions, and that ongoing operating costs could be met by corporate sponsorship. How realistic is this concept? If corporate sponsors can be found, it is highly unlikely that they would make a long term funding commitments, given companies' responsibilities to shareholders, market pressures and the fact that management priorities change as enterprises evolve, grow, or restructure. Before any major steps can be taken, local politicians and the public would have to be entirely satisfied that the proposed museum would not become a burden on local taxpayers, and such assurances may prove very difficult to obtain.

If the museum is justifiable, it would have to be demonstrated that it could attract new tourist business to the area. But the fact is that the tourist business booms winter and summer these days, and studies have shown that day trippers who visit the area leave very few dollars here.

While county council's position on funding the feasibility study will not be known until Wednesday, it seems probable they will agree to provide the funds. The study is the first step to resolving the matter once and for all. In the end it will come down to priorities. If very few local dollars are needed, and if long term commitments can in fact be obtained, then the Kanawa collection may very well find a new home in Haliburton County. But if there is more than the slightest risk of the museum becoming a liability on local balance sheets, local politicians almost certainly will not support it.

Your words

One of the most important roles a newspaper plays in the community is to provide a forum for local opinion. To that end, The Echo welcomes readers comments on any matter that touches the life of the community. If you disagree with the editor's views, or those of our columnists, or if you have something say about local issues, consider sharing your views with thousands of other Echo readers through a letter to the editor.

Mix of news, opinion unrecognized

from Echo readers

To the Editor:

Because I don't plan another whole column on the subject, I am answering a letter in last week's Echo in this manner.

The subject, of course, was not free trade, but the mixing of editorial bias into news columns, which journalistic tradition insists should be fact-filled, but opinion-free.

How sad it is to see that some people apparently have become so unsuspecting as to be unable to grasp the difference.

Perhaps Leo Dobrzensky's experience has given her a better perspective on how insidious the process can become.

Where charity begins

To the Editor:

No one will deny that charity begins at home. The great challenge to our generosity as Canadians is to address the fears and insecurity of those people whom we do not personally know and who have no social services to buffer them against hunger, illness and unemployment. In developing countries, such as Mali, Mozambique, Bangladesh and Nepal, thousands of people earn less than a dollar a day, and live constantly on the edge of disaster. USC Canada has been heartened by donations from old and new friends across Canada, but postal disruptions cut into our Fall fund raising and we are still short of our campaign target of $3.2 million. Every dollar counts a lot and is urgently needed. Kindly send your donation to USC Canada, 56 Sparks Street, Ottawa, Ontario. K1P 5B1.

Sincerely,

John Martin,
Chief Executive Officer, USC Canada

An open heart

To the Editor:

Re: Martha Perkins' column 'Some trends a little far-fetched.'

I am saddened that Martha's response to others' sincerely held beliefs is mockery, and amazed that you would print this unusually shallow account. I doubt that you would print an equally derogatory piece about more common belief systems, such as Christianity or Islam.

In a world where understanding and harmony are deeply needed, it would seem to me that a more appropriate response to an encounter with unfamiliar belief systems would be open minded investigation.

There are many paths to home, many experiences of the sacred, and I believe that we can support each other along our paths as we grow.

Certainly it is possible to find aspects of any belief system and its expressions, that are ludicrous, if that is what you are looking for, but if you open your heart and eyes to the good in all you will find you are nourished in abundance. Even if you are "old fashioned!"

Sincerely,

Caroline Bishop,

Area municipalities get environment grants

QUEENS PARK

by John Eakins, MPP

CONCERN for our environment is an issue which has been growing as governments and interested groups work to clean up our lakes and rivers and protect them from future environmental harm.

Recently, my colleague, Jim Bradley, the Minister of the Environment announced a number of grants to assist municipalities in Victoria-Haliburton.

According to the latest Haliburton County Snowmobile Association Newsletter the future of the 20 mile abandoned railbed which runs between the villages of Haliburton and Kinnmount is now secure. The County of Haliburton has made recreational history by obtaining the rights to own this essential winter highway. Snowmobilers and businesses who depend on this route each winter now have the assurance that this access will be preserved for recreational use and not be broken up by sale to private individuals. A solid tip of the helmet to the county warden and his councillors for this land mark decision. This is good news for all snowmobilers in the area.

If you are looking for a Christmas present for that certain person on your list who loves to read or who is interested in the history of the area you need not look any further. We have the book for you with a story to tell. A Hospital of our Own (The history of the Haliburton Hospital by Martha Perkins). The book which is selling at a cost of $6.50 may be purchased from one of the business places in the village of Haliburton. All proceeds from the sale of this book will go to the Haliburton Hospital Expansion Fund and the local merchants are not taking a commission. Approximately half of the book's cost (or $1800 when all are sold) is being donated to the fund through the Haliburton CGIT which is distributing the booklets. It's an excellent gift for someone born in the hospital or who had to convalesce there. The proceeds are going to a good cause and the book is very informative and entertaining to read.

The Los Angeles Kings' Bernie Nicholls has gained something of a reputation for scoring goals, a great many of which don't mean all that much (popping a couple, let's say, in a 7-4 loss but doing little when a game is on the line). That could be said of the many goals the Kings score in these 8-7 losses they seem to endure year after year. Here's a new twist on that old story. Although Kings rank 19th in killing penalties, Nicholls leads the N.H.L. with four shorthanded goals.

Irondale Lass, a horse owned by Don Finn and Gary Vasey, came in second in a race held at Greenwood in Toronto on Saturday December 5. It was in the first race for two year old fillies and was seven furlongs.

Yamafest '88, billed as Ontario's Family Snowmobile Rodeo and Winter Festival is scheduled for Haliburton on February 19, 20, and 21. Some of the events include O.S.R.F. amateur and pro Snocross racing, Provincial Club Competition Snocross semi-finals, 14 event snowmobile rodeos, Snowmobile Club Rodeo Challenge, Haliburton Forest and Wildlife Reserve safari's, dances, bingo, casino, children's village.

Santa's on his way and he will be arriving in Haliburton this coming Saturday December 19 and he will set up for business in Stedmans Mall downstairs at 2:00 p.m. Just before Santa arrives a movie will be presented in the mall starting at 1:00 p.m. There will be loads of fun and gifts for all the children. This event is co-sponsored by the Haliburton Rotary Club and the Royal Canadian Legion, Branch 129, Haliburton.

We have just received word that Bill Payne and Al Blanchard who team up and go under the name of the Hot Wires will be performing at the Academy Theatre in Lindsay this coming Sunday evening, December 20. The boys will be singing and playing their guitars along with a star studded group of country and western singers who will be on the programme at the Academy in "A Night of Country Music."

A Carol Sing and Christmas Concert will be held at the United Church in Haliburton this Friday night, December 18 at 7:00 p.m. There is still time for adults wishing to participate in the program.

When it comes to auction sales one can usually find Harvey Clarke in there bidding on articles for resale at this business place near Donald. Harvey was telling me the other day that he was at an auction at Lindsay recently and he purchased a set of bone saws and instruments which belonged to a Bobcaygeon doctor's daughter. Harvey sent them to Southey's in London, England in hopes of finding a market. They sold for 360 pounds which is $700. in our money.

We are sorry to report that Mary Hadley of Gooderham, had the misfortune to fall on the road one day last week when she was returning from the hamlet's Post Office to her home. Aileen Hunter, who was driving her car in the same area, found her on the road and she was immediately rushed to the Haliburton Hospital. Mrs. Hadley, who is the Gooderham correspondent for the Echo, is loved by all and we all join in wishing her a speedy recovery.

Time for those annual awards

The View From Here

by
Harvey Clarke

THIS IS the time of the year we start to see roundups of the best, the worst, the biggest news stories of the year. It is also the season for the presentation of Awards of all kinds, covering the past year.

This column prefers to look for its stories a little further back than the front pages, and this has been a good year for unusual items in every corner of the globe.

In a break from tradition — last year — I've decided to devote this week to some annual awards, and save the best, worst, etc. 'of the year' until next week. Herewith then, my selections for 1987.

BAD CHOICE OF WORDS AWARD: (Does not include any entries from this column.) Winner was the writer of a flyer advertising a free game of tennis at a new court in the ritzy Queens Quay area of Toronto. After complaints to Government agencies and the media, red-faced officials explained that 'whites only' referred to the tennis togs to wear for your free game — not the people in them.

CLEVER TURN OF PHRASE AWARD: When some toady in Los Angeles county proposed naming a nearby forest after President Reagan, not exactly known for his environmental sensibilities, the Sierra Club was not amused. Bob Hattoy, a spokesman for the nature preservation group said "Naming a national forest after Ronald Reagan is like naming a day care centre after W.C. Fields."

'LET'S HAVE A BIG WEDDING' AWARD: Tough to top the good news for the 68 couples who got married in one big celebration in the Philippines in September. The bad news? Well, the 156 water buffalo and six cows they killed and cooked for the wedding feast wiped out the local supply of animals needed to work the fields.

'WHO BROUGHT THE FIREWORKS' AWARD: Nobody is owning up to bringing them to the 4th of July celebrations at the Valencia Apartments in Anaheim, California last summer. The landlord said he would evict anyone exploding fireworks this year, but he didn't have to. No one was hurt when fireworks started a $2 million fire that destroyed 50 apartments and damaged 50 more.

HI-TECH AWARD (JAPANESE DIVISION): Maybe it's because they are such polite people, but who else but a Japanese would go to the trouble to invent non-smelling garlic? Chemist Kotaro Sakai has developed additives that effectively kill the unique aroma after it has been chewed. Or maybe he did it for the money — seems he sold his hi-tech no-reek know-how to an American company.

LOW-TECH AWARD (MILLIONAIRE DIVISION): It really came out during a hearing about her will, but Margaret de Cuevas, John D. Rockefeller's most favored grandchild, who left $60 million when she died in 1985, kept 10 radios in her bedroom — each tuned to a different station. Never could solve tuning in to the different stations, apparently.

SORE LOSER AWARD: And I use the term advisedly. Daniel Canelairo, a convicted bank robber, is suing the police and an Oakland, California bank, because the bundle of bills the teller passed to him at gunpoint gave him second degree burns in some rather tender places. Seems he stuffed his loot down the front of his pants, not knowing it was booby-trapped to explode with tear gas and a brightly-coloured dye. Not only that, he says, but the arresting officers were laughing when they should have been calling for medical treatment. Definitely 'cruel and unusual punishment.'

DUMB HOLD-UP ARTIST AWARD: Can't blame Daniel for falling into that trap, but there's an International tie in this category for real dummies. In Champaign, Illinois, a bank robber was so impressed with First Federal Bank when he made his heist on Monday that he came back on Wednesday to open an account — with the same teller.

And in Vancouver, a man who had escaped from a minimum security prison while serving 18 years for bank robbery, went into Guaranty Trust and withdrew $30 from his savings account. He then pulled a gun and ordered two tellers to give him the money in their cash drawers.

STRESS REDUCTION PRODUCT AWARD: You can pick the winner from a list of finalists released this year that include: real-looking foam rubber sneakers that you can toss at the TV when your team loses; detailed nude voodoo dolls to bug the one you love to hate; Enditol, a phoney extra-strength stick of dynamite; or the Dismember, a cuddly stuffed teddy bear with Velcro-lined limbs that can be ripped off in a fit of rage — and then reattached before your next tantrum.

EVERY CLOUD HAS A SILVER LINING AWARD: I think the hands-down winner has to be the person who wrote a letter to the Star editor, pointing out that if we do get free trade, we'll probably be able to dump the metric muddle — since our new trading partners never did go for kilopascals and such. Good on them!

A citizen who deserves recognition

Sunny Side Up

by Martha Perkins

LAST JANUARY, people gathered at the Haliburton Legion to officially kick off the Haliburton Hospital Expansion Fund. While Barbara Dawson didn't do much of the talking that first night, in the ensuing months she would find herself doing a lot of work to raise the $240,000 needed for the new continuing care wing.

That goal is now $400,000 and along with the increase in expectations, Mrs. Dawson found herself committed to spending an increased amount of time to the fundraising campaign she headed, and indeed, spearheaded. Yet through it all, her commitment to the dream has never waned and her enthusiasm for the project has not diminished.

Mrs. Dawson would be my nomination for the Citizen of the Year, if Dysart had one. Just count how many times you have seen her picture in the paper as she accepted the cheque. Many of those pictures were taken at the Echo office, and for that we are appreciative, but there were many other times she had to travel far and wide in order to acknowledge the contribution people had made. And even though I was not taking notes, she was sure to thank everyone involved, assuring them that their help will go a long way in reaching the fund's goal, no matter how large or small the donation.

Getting your picture in the paper is the fun part, although I know the novelty soon wore off for Mrs. Dawson and she was more than willing to let someone else share the glory, but there was a lot of work behind the scenes too.

In the course of writing the booklet on the history of the hospital, I often had to phone Mrs. Dawson or drop in to see her at home. She was always obliging and more often than not, working on the campaign, whether writing thank you cards to donors, figuring out the total sum or simply keeping this monumental task organized and running smoothly. If she couldn't stop to answer questions at this moment, it was because she was rushing off to Peterborough for a hospital board meeting.

There are some costs to running the campaign, but paying for Mrs. Dawson's time isn't one of them. All the hours she has spent working on behalf of the hospital fund have been voluntary, and there will be no financial reward for her when the campaign's objective is met. Indeed, that's when the work will begin in earnest as contractors and architects take the plan off the drawing board and build a three-dimensional building everyone in the county can be proud of.

But it's not just because Mrs. Dawson has spent so much of her time working on the campaign that I think merits the Citizen of the Year distinction. It's that she's done it so willingly and always with a smile on her face and a pledge to do anything more within her power.

The necessity of having a continuing care unit in the county is one thing, but even the best ideas need someone who is dedicated enough to bring them about. Mrs. Dawson put a friendly face on the campaign, yet behind all the smiles was a determination to make it a success. I for one would like to thank her for both.

We welcome your comments.

PIC OF THE PAST

This photograph in the Haliburton Highlands Museum collection came from the late Mrs. T. B. Barrett (nee Marjorie Clarke) of Port Dover, Ontario. It shows three Haliburton girls out in a canoe on Head Lake, Haliburton Village, circa 1915. The girls are (left to right) Marjorie Clarke, Clara Gorrie, and Dorothy Clarke. The canoe belonged to Mr. George Bennisten, organist at St. George's Anglican Church in Haliburton. Marjorie Clarke became a school teacher in Port Dover. She became Mrs. T. B. Barrett. Clara Gorrie was the daughter of Daniel Gorrie (who ran Gorrie's Departmental Store in Haliburton and served on Dysart Council). Dorothy Clarke became Haliburton Post Mistress. Note the alligator boat in background, used to haul log booms across the lake. Information on the above ladies was provided by Madeline Austin.

The story of Zechariah and Elizabeth

AS OTHERS SEE IT

by Bob Giuliano

IN THE DAYS of Herod, King of Judea—there was an old priest named Zechariah. Zechariah was a kind, old man.

In his many years in the Temple, he had seen much suffering and had offered many prayers for his people. Zechariah's people were a people longing for deliverance, but their prayers had not been heard. God had been silent.

Zechariah had a private prayer as well. Often, especially in his younger years, he had quietly prayed his prayer, but God had not listened, or at least, He had not answered.

Now an old man, living in the shadow of the end, having made peace with the loneliness of his life, Zechariah found a quiet place in his soul where he trusted God, never-the-less.

In the days of Herod, King of Judea, Zechariah had a wife, Elizabeth, whom he had grown to love over many years.

Elizabeth was an honest woman, straightforward and kind, who had managed his house with skill and humour. She had been strength to Zechariah, believing in his work and loving the people whom he served.

Elizabeth was the daughter of a priest and thus brought a priestly presence into his house reverencing each hold day and faithfully trusting in God's purpose for their life.

Elizabeth, too, had a prayer, unanswered. She was barren. She had no children. Something was wrong with her, so they said, or she was being punished for some wrong, so they believed in those days.

It was a matter of serious concern to her, leaving her now in her older years with a feeling of emptiness. Sometimes she felt ashamed when with her kinfolk as they chatted about their babies and families. She would find herself silent and feel very much alone.

In those moments her heart would pray feverently for a child.

Never-the-less, Zechariah and Elizabeth, now old, had learned to trust their lives to God. They continued to serve Him and to love His children.

In the days of Herod, King of Judea—Zechariah was serving at the altar in the Temple. Outside, a crowd of people, filled with longing, prayed out of the depths of their souls.

As a sign of the ascending prayers of the people, the priest sent wafts of smoke and incense spiraling heavenward. The prayers of the people were sweet to the nostrils of God.

At that very moment Zechariah, this faithful old man, had the overwhelming sense of God's presence. It was a though he heard God say: "I have heard the prayers of the people, and I have heard your prayer, Zechariah."

"Your wife, Elizabeth, will bear you a son, who will prepare the way for God".

Zechariah was dumbfounded. Without thinking he said, "I am an old man, and my wife, too. We're too old now to have a child!"

In his disbelief, or fear of senility, the old man could not speak. He simply stood at the altar, engrossed in this private, personal moment until the people became restless waiting for the benediction so they could go home to dinner.

Finally, he turned to the people, mechanically raised his hands in blessing and silently walked out of the Temple. The people wondered what had happened to the old priest and talked about it among themselves. But soon it was dismissed in laughter as they went their way home.

In the days of Herod, King of Judea—Zechariah sat quietly while his wife Elizabeth served their supper. He watched her familiar movements around the stove, serving their dishes. Her patient, quick concentration on her duties reminded him of her youth. She had been tall, and graceful with dark, dark eyes, set deep in olive skin. Those eyes had come to speak love to him. At times he had seen disappointment and sorrow there as well. Sometimes he thought he saw the sufferings of all the people in her eyes and heard the cry of the whole nation when she wept.

He remembered the moments of love between them, their hope for children, their prayers, consulting physicians, magicians, exorcists, and finally the acceptance of barrenness—the learning to trust in God without having their own way.

Now her shoulders slumped under the weight of the years, her cheeks somewhat sunken, the lips wrinkled and, from laughter, deep creases around the eyes. He saw his life's companion like himself: old, teeth gone, skin blotched, soft and starting to sag, no longer firm and strong—never-the-less life and joy in their eyes and a deep, seasoned love in their hearts.

In the days of Herod, King of Judea—this old man and this old woman ate their supper together in silence. It was not a lonely silence, but a quietness of being together without having to speak. Zechariah then wrote on a slate what had happened to him in the Temple and slid it across the table for Elizabeth to read. Embarrassed, he waited for her to respond.

As always, his wife's response was a surprise to him. Expecting her to doubt his mind, he was relieved when tears of joy showed in her eyes. So he wrote out the full story: "It was as though God said not only we would have a son, but 'you will call his name John; you will have joy and gladness, and many will rejoice at his birth. For he will be great before the Lord!'"

In the days of Herod, King of Judea—Two lonely old people sat at their supper table, laughing through tears at themselves and teasing God for making such foolish promises!

The HHSS Redmen hockey team handed Lakefield a 6-2 defeat when the teams met last Wednesday night at the Dysart arena. The redmen have been playing well lately, and will be looking for another win this Wednesday night with their last home game of the year.

Area to hold Nordic meet

More than 700 high school cross country skiers and their coaches will converge on the Haliburton area in mid February for two days of provincial championship competition.

The event is being hosted by Trinity College school in Peterborough, but will make use of the Nordic Trail Association's competitive loops near PineStone Inn. It is the first time that the area has played host to a provincial high school athletic championship of any kind, although the ski trail system has been used for other major events at the masters level.

Skiers in the provincial event will include the top boys and girls teams in the various provincial districts, as well as the top ten individual skiers in each of the districts.

Haliburton high school teacher John Fitzgerald, co-convenor of the event along with two teachers from the host Trinity College school, said he has been working with Chamber of Commerce manager Shirley Rapson to put together accomodation information for the incoming teams. Since the event will get underway Sunday evening, February 21, and continue Monday and Tuesday, February 22 and 23, it is anticipated that space can be found in area lodges, resorts and motels. Tourist operators have been informed that the event is coming up, Fitzgerald said.

PineStone Inn will serve as the organizing venue for the two days of competition. Individual junior events and the senior girls events will make use of the 5 kilometre loop, while senior boys will compete on the 10 kilometre loop. Relay events will be held on PineStone trails.

Competitors are expected to begin arriving Sunday afternoon, and will have an opportunity to ski

Redmen team transformed

Players pool talents and get on the winning track

The transformation is remarkable. In little more than a month, Ron Stackhouse has molded a group of skilled Haliburton high school hockey players into a team that plays—and wins together. The Redmen have overcome a disappointing start to their season, proved they can handle any team in the league, and begun to show the kind of disciplined, cool-headed play that may very well lead to a playoff berth. Now, say some fans, if only the league could do something about refereeing that frequently has not been up to the standards of play on the ice.

Referees are all too often the scapegoats of vituperative fans for whom insults are a form of recreation, but there was no question in the minds of reasonably dispassionate observers of last Wednesday's game between the Redmen and Lakefield that the refereeing was uneven, to put it mildly.

The Redmen got a little extra warm up time as the 7:15 start time came and went with no sign of Lakefield. They arrived at about 7:20, having been delayed by fog along the way. But once the game began, it was clear that the Redmen are a much better team than they were when they lost the first four starts of the season.

The Redmen were effective from the opening faceoff, and it didn't take them long to put Lakefield at a disadvantage. Two minutes and 51 seconds into the game, Erin Nicholls stickhandled through the defense and finessed a back hand shot that went in cleanly to put the Redmen where they wanted to be.

The play went end to end for the middle minutes, with both sides landing some solid hits. Near the seven minute mark the Redmen just missed adding another goal on a well executed pass in front of the Lakefield net.

Haliburton found themselves two men short with less than five minutes left in the period after goaltender Andrew Burk was cross checked in his net and the penalty was assessed against the Redmen for protesting, not Lakefield. But the disadvantage didn't daunt the Redmen. Erin Nicholls went the length of the ice on a solo rush and made it 2-0 while Lakefield was still scrambling to catch up.

The shorthanded situation took its toll just 17 seconds after Nicholls second goal, however, as a defensive lapse allowed Lakefield to put the puck past a sprawling Burk to narrow the gap to 2-1.

The Redmen had a manpower advantage for a minute and 20 seconds with 2:55 remaining, and while they put some solid pressure on Lakefield, they were unable to score at that point. But with just seven seconds left in the period and the Redmen applying intense pressure, the puck came out from behind the net into the slot and Jeff Popple drove it in low on the stick side to make it 3-1 for Haliburton at the end of one.

The most controversial and damaging penalty call of the game occurred early in the second period when Popple got tangled up with a Lakefield player behind the play and both of them went down. When the referee blew his whistle the Lakefield player threw his stick down in disgust, apparently upset that he had drawn a penalty. In fact, however, the call went against Popple, who was given a five minute major for high sticking "around the throat," as the referee is reported to have told Redmen coach Ron Stackhouse when he asked for the ruling. The major sent Popple out for the rest of the game, and will keep him from playing this Wednesday night as well when the Redmen play Crestwood at the Dysart arena. Not suprisingly, fans who saw the play were baffled by the call, and expressed their frustration vehemently.

At 6:32 of the period Jaro Cooper pushed the Redmen's lead to 4-1 after several minutes of ragged play in which neither side put together many scoring chances.

Less than four minutes later Scott Russell outskated the Lakefield defense in a shorthanded situation and put the puck cleanly away to stretch the advantage to 5-1.

The Redmen saw the lead eroded slightly with 2:21 left in the period when Lakefield capitalized on a man advantage. But 5-2 was a close as the visitors could get. With 4:20 left in the third frame, Russell netted his second of the night on a two man advantage situation.

Haliburton continued to dominate as the clock ran down, and the game ended with the local boys on the winning side of a 6-2 score.

They'll be trying to add two more points in the win column this Wednesday night, the last game before a three week Christmas break. The action is scheduled to begin at 7:15.

the course that day, although formal competition does not begin until Monday.

The cafeteria at HHSS will offer a special dinner on Monday evening for competitors, following by an awards ceremony for the first day's events. Rounding out the first day of competition, a dance has been organized at HHSS with music by local group The Ugly Rumour.

Competition on Tuesday will consist of relay events. It is expected to be over by about 3 p.m.

Timing and course organization will be handled by officials from outside the area.

A number of local high school students will help make the event run smoothly. The girls athletic association will operate a concession at the start/finish area, and members of the HHSS nordic ski club will assist with race organization duties at the site.

John Fitzgerald said he hopes the event may lead to further high school competitive skiing on local trails.

"I'm hoping that it will really boost competitive skiing around here, and they'll come back here to train," he said, adding that no other trails anywhere in the province compare with the Haliburton area system.

HHSS has a cross country ski team, and they'll be training hard once the snow falls, in hopes of qualifying for the competition. Fitzgerald said he thinks at least two local skiers have a chance of making it.

Curry Motors comes back to tie 7-7

Curry Motors came surging back from a 7-3 deficit in the third period of a Haliburton men's league game on Sunday night to wind up in a 7-7 tie with Bishop and Wilson, who had been in front for most of the game.

The motormen got on the board in the first period on a goal by Glen Scully, but Barry Boice tallied twice to put the surveyors in front. Scully replied to tie the score, but as time ran out in the first period, Boice scored yet again for Bishop and Wilson.

Early in the second period Scully got his third of the night and the score was again tied. Bishop and Wilson then turned on the jets to move in front by

Dysart seeks provincial aid to expand Haliburton dump

Dysart council will ask the provincial environment ministry to help fund 75 percent of the cost of hydrogeological studies, consultants fees and design modifications for an expansion of the Haliburton dump site.

The site presently consist of 3.8 hectares of property, but the municipality also owns land immediately east of the dump, and wants to begin using it.

Council also has submitted an application for subsidy on total proposed expenditures of $160,000 to develop a new landfill facility at a location that has not yet been revealed.

Most of the cost of the dump expansion study would pay for wells to be drilled around the perimeter of the site. These would be capped and their contents monitored periodically to determine what is happening to leachate (the product of waste decomposition) at the site.

Council proposes to spend $100,000 on the project next year, of which $25,000 would come from local ratepayers. A further $15,000 would be spent in 1989 for design modifications to expand the site.

At the new location council proposes to spend $80,000 next year and a further $80,000 in 1989 for hydrogeological tests, consulting fees and design preparation. The cost to local taxpayers over the two year period would be $40,000.

"We have no choice but to do it," Reeve Murray Fearrey told council on Monday. "It's a big bullet, but we've got to bite it."

A related concern is the pressure being exerted on local dumps by people who are not ratepayers in the municipalities. The reeve suggested one solution may be to issue cards with tax bills that give people the right to dump household garbage in municipal sites. These could be checked as people entered the site. If people did not have cards, he suggested a charge of perhaps $2 could be levied.

"It's something I think we could look at" the reeve said.

Councillor Lloyd Leadbeater said a card and fee system might result in more garbage being tossed on roadsides, but Fearrey said he didn't think that would be the case.

Another step council indicated it may consider is sending out letters with tax bills informing people of what constitutes household garbage. Dumps receive large volumes of brush and other debris because people don't bother to get fire permits and burn the material on their own properties.

Brian and Dorothy Black of Sid Stamp Fuels received a plaque from Shell Canada representative Doug McTaggart, left, marking 25 years of business. The business was bought by Dave Stamp in 1962. Four years later he sold it to his son Sid. Brian and Dorothy bought it in 1986 on the death of Sid Stamp.

Trustees agree to 5 year lease plan for new typewriters for HHSS room

The Haliburton County Board of Education has agreed to lease rather than buy 36 new electronic typewriters for the commercial department at Haliburton high school. The new machines will replace Olivetti machines purchased by the board five years ago which are worn out and frequently break down, despite contract servicing arrangements.

Doug Mitchell, head of the commercial department at HHSS, proposed the lease arrangement in discussions with trustees last Tuesday.

Mitchell said the Olivetti machines purchased by the board were expected to last seven years, but are worn out after five years of student use. He said the model subsequently was withdrawn from the market.

Mitchell said he investigated current models made by Canon and Olympia, and concluded that the Olympia machines would be the best choice for his department. The machines are widely used in Victoria County schools, and have proved durable there.

Under the arrangement proposed by Mitchell and later approved by trustees, the board will lease 36 new typewriters at a cost of $5,400 a year, plus tax, and at the end of the five year lease, the machines will be owned by the board at no further cost. The price also includes a service and parts contract for the duration of the lease. The board had been paying $2,400 a year for a service contract on the Olivetti machines.

The board concluded the lease arrangement proposed by Mitchell was a good deal, but wanted to see if other quotes could be obtained before accepting the Olympia lease.

In his presentation Mitchell suggested the old machines could be sold to the public for $50 each to help offset lease costs in the first year, but the board did not endorse the idea. Trustees wanted time to determine if the machines could be used elsewhere in the local school system. They noted that if the machines are sold, students should be given the first opportunity to buy them.

Business administrator Jim Bradley was instructed to seek other lease quotations and accept the most favourable one.

Dysart balks at cost jump

Dysart council will ask planning firms to bid on the municipality's work in the wake of a 50 percent fee hike from Greer Galloway Associates, the firm council presently uses.

Municipal planning co ordinator Jody Ainsworth reported that the hourly rate for a Greer Galloway planner's services will jump 49.5 percent, while the fee for support staff will increase 50.5 percent. She noted that the fees have not increased for two years.

Council decided it should seek competitive bids from other planning firms before deciding whether or not to continue its relationship with Greer Galloway.

Planning firms will be asked to prepare bids for consideration at council's January meeting.

'Smoke free' decision a major step

assist with counselling programmes.

So far the board has not indicated that it will ban smoking by students on school property, although Craigmyle said he views that as "a very possible next step" once the 'smoke free' policy is implemented inside schools.

On the question of relations between the board, its staff and the public, Craigmyle said he believes very strongly in the need for input from the community. The board's policy in dealing with staff and the public is one of open communication, he said, and he expects that will continue.

One major decision the board will face under Craigmyle's chairmanship is choosing a replacement for Haliburton high school principal Andy Hemphill, who will step down from the job at the end of his three year appointment next June. The first moves toward finding a new principal are expected to be taken at the board's next regular meeting in January.

Stanhope wants MTC to fix bad section

Stanhope council will petition the Ministry of Transportation and Communications to upgrade a section of Highway 118 between the Norley Road and St Peter's Church road.

Councillor Jim Harrison brought the matter to the table in discussions with MTC representative Andy Mintz.

"Very little has been done to bring the road up to a decent standard"

Harrison said, noting that while highway has been improved over the years, "but there is a section that has never been done."

Study identifies area's tourism strengths

by LEN PIZZEY
Editor

While tourism is clearly a growth industry in Haliburton County, a lack of major attractions and a limited availability of top quality accommodation is hampering the area's ability to compete for international as well as Ontario travellers dollars, a market study funded by the provincial government has concluded.

The study, carried out by consultants Laventhol and Horwath, provides an overview of the local tourism 'plant', identifies some of the area's strengths and weaknesses in competing for tourist dollars, and analyses the vacation needs, wants and preferences of a sampling of U.S. citizens in Buffalo, Cleveland and Detroit. Although it was completed in November, 1986, the study was not unveiled to local tourist operators until last Wednesday, when consultants conducted a seminar on it at PineStone Inn.

In considering the local tourism 'plant' — the lodges, resorts and other facilities available to tourists, as well as the area's physical attractions — the consultants identified a number of positive aspects as well as some significant limitations which tourist operators may try to address as the area develops.

On the positive side are a high level of awareness of Haliburton regionally and provincially, its proximity to the major urban market of the Golden Horseshoe, its lakes and forests, skiing and snowmobiling, the Haliburton School of Fine Arts, and the arts and crafts base which can be expanded upon.

"Although it is clear that the area has not fully realized its tourism potential to date, it does retain possibilities for significantly improving its existing tourism base," the consultants said.

On the negative side are the fact that Haliburton's natural attractions are not unique, making it hard for the area to attract vacationers from distant points, particularly the U.S., and "the generally underdeveloped tourism plant."

The consultants, who based their conclusions on 1986 data and examined development over the previous five years, say the area has a "large number of low to medium quality establishments" which show "signs of deterioration and neglect."

"Few establishments in the area offer the superior quality and range of services demanded by today's current standards" the consultants say, "and there are few large scale destination properties capable of serving as 'flagships' to the area. Similarly, existing food and beverage facilities in the area offer limited opportunities for fine dining experiences."

The consultants also identified what they described as "a noted lack of effective marketing and promotional activity." In particular, they said, "there are currently no package tours encompassing the various attractions available in the Haliburton area." This

'More than three quarters of respondents had not heard of Haliburton...Lack of awareness is undoubtedly the major problem facing Haliburton' puts the area at a disadvantage in regional markets, but particularly in relation to national and international markets, the report says.

As for the U.S. market, the study found that very few people in any of the three cities surveyed had heard of Haliburton.

"More than three quarters of the respondents from each of the cities surveyed (Buffalo, Cleveland and Detroit) had not heard or learned of Haliburton. Lack of awareness is undoubtedly the major problem facing Haliburton."

It also found, however, that the majority of people from the U.S. who might come to Haliburton are looking for budget, 'downscale' accommodation and activities, and at Wednesday's seminar it was noted that local tourist operators may not want to expend much effort or money trying to tap that market.

If the U.S. market is to be reached effectively, "aggressive marketing efforts must be undertaken by local operators vis-a-vis their travel associations. Greater and more frequent representation will be required at American travel trade shows" the study says.

In looking at ways to improve the area's attractiveness as a tourism destination, the consultants identified a number of improvements and enhancements to existing attractions that in their view, would put the areas in a more competitive position.

Lodge-to-lodge skiing on the Nordic trail system was one scheme they felt should be heavily promoted, since it is unique in this part of Ontario.

Live theatre is an attraction ranked among the top ten in importance by U.S. people contacted in the survey, and the consultants say "consideration should be given to development of an open air amphitheatre in the Haliburton area."

Another possibility included in the report is boat cruises on local lakes, although the consultants may have been misinformed about the size of these water bodies and the potential they represent for cruising.

"A number of cruises could be offered varying in length from half and hour to daylong excursions. Overnight cruises could also be offered. The latter would include meals, accommodation, shipboard activities and shore visits. Utilizing an historic steamship would provide an additional attraction" the consultants suggest.

(There is only one 'historic steamship' currently operating anywhere in Canada — the RMS Segwun. It plies the major Muskoka water bodies, Lakes Muskoka, Joseph and Rosseau, and while its revenues meet operating expenses, major maintenance of the ship must be funded by donations from the private sector. It does not offer overnight accommodation.)

As a winter destination, the area should "work toward establishing itself as a major nordic ski centre" and should run loppets for novice and experienced skiers, the consultants say. "Consideration should also be given to hosting an ice fishing derby" since many Americans participate in the sport at other Canadian locations, the consultants say.

The only spring opportunity identified by the consultants is maple syrup making, centring on the program offered each year at the Leslie Frost Centre south of Dorset.

To enhance summer tourism potential, the consultants propose expanding the Guild of Fine arts show and sale into "a major arts and craft festival, featuring the performing arts, film, art and craft exhibitions, street dances and strolling musicians."

"Consideration may also be given to hosting a multi cultural fair or ethnic festival in Haliburton" the report says. "An event featuring ethnic foods, crafts and entertainment would hold significant appeal to the U.S. traveller seeking foreign experiences."

As for fall, the consultants say the colours are the main attraction but "this could be supplemented by additional events including a photography festival with exhibitions and a competition."

On the accommodation side of the tourism equation for Haliburton, the consultants say quality bed and breakfast establishments as well as small rural inns are needed.

"The establishment of distinctive medium priced dining facilities should be encouraged", the consultants say.

In conclusion, the consultants made a number of recommendations which are summarized as follows:

- A comprehensive marketing plan should be initiated to increase awareness levels and effectively promote Haliburton as a tourist destination;

- A key component of the marketing plan should involve travel trade incentives to package the Haliburton area;

- Haliburton could be packaged as a secondary tourism destination for Americans visiting Toronto;

- Upgrading and development of additional visitor accommodation should be undertaken bearing in mind that U.S. target markets are generally downscale, and;

- Upgrading, expansion and development of additional tourist attractions should be initiated to create a 'critical mass'.

Pearl Lyle believes in busy life at 90

HELLO READERS! Happiness is the feeling you get when you are too busy to be miserable.

Does this sound familiar? Frequent readers of Senior League will instantly recognize the pen of Pearl Lyle as she begins her column with a salutation and a few words of wisdom. One expects to read the news of who came to visit the residents at Hyland Crest Senior Citizens Home, or who brought the tea last week, but considering that the author of this column is a 90-year-old woman who has had lived a very full, and to some, very exhausting, life, one should also expect to learn a little more.

When Pearl Lyle does look back on her life, there are not too many miserable memories, for as her saying suggests, she was simply kept too busy. Whether it was helping her parents with the chores, teaching, raising her own family of three or making quilts, she always had a recipe for happiness—keep busy.

Ninety years ago, young Pearl was the eighth child born to James Reynolds and Mary McNeil of Horseshoe Lake. (There were three more to follow.) Her parents had both emigrated from Ireland after they heard the wonderful reports about life in North America and it was after they moved here that they met and decided to first settle on the Queens Line above Scotch Line.

Even though he had the desire to learn, Mr. Reynolds never had much of an education and it was his wife who taught him the Three R's. She must have been quite learned, her daughter says today, because "she taught school when they couldn't get a teacher," which was quite common in those days. If the every day chores of farm life weren't enough to keep them busy, 11 children added a bit of zest. After Mr. Reynolds' brother and sister-in-law were killed in a train accident, their three children moved in with Pearl's family. In later years, one girl went back to the city, a boy died of typhoid fever and another boy stayed with them until he started up his own family. When you're used to such a full house, what's one more person, so the school teacher would board at the Reynolds' too.

Because he had never had an opportunity to go to school, it was very important to Mr. Reynolds that his children get a good education, although Pearl was the only one of the bunch to go to high school. She remembers him as being a good natured man, but not jolly and verbose. His was a more subtle humour, based on seeing the light side of any situation.

As one might expect, Mrs. Reynolds was just as hard working as her husband and quickly let her children know that they were to help with the chores.

"She was very kind and a little on the religious side," Mrs. Lyle remembers, and always kept life at the Reynolds' home on the straight and narrow.

One Saturday in February, whoever was supposed to stoke the fire must have done too good of a job, for smoke was soon discovered filling the top floor of the log cabin. "It was terrible," Mrs. Lyle recalls from her childhood memories, and the family had to hurry out of the house, only to see everything that they owned go up in smoke. "It just went up like nobody's business."

They did manage to save one thing, however. On his way out of the house, Mr. Reynolds grabbed the huge crock filled with cream which was to be latter churned into butter. Out in the yard, he put it on the treadle of the sewing machine and left to see if there was anything else he could do. Since fires do not affect a pig's appetite, the temptation of all that cream was just too much for the family pig, who quickly proceeded to eat up the entire contents of the crock.

One of their neighbours had an old house they weren't using, and after they got it heated up, the Reynolds family moved in. The boys were not inside for very long when their father took them out into the woods to fell the trees which they would take to the sawmill to trade for lumber. By that May, they had a new house built.

Pearl Lyle, who writes the Senior League column from her home at Hyland Crest, is one 90 year old who has lived a very full and busy life, and she hasn't slowed down yet.

Pearl Lyle grew up in this house, along with ten brothers and sisters. She has warm memories of those days.

While the original homestead was quite small, this house was designed to house a very large family, with one bedroom downstairs and eight bedrooms upstairs—four on each side of the hallway. Even with all those bedrooms, young Pearl often had to share a room with one of her sisters.

When you walked through the door of the house, you were probably greeted by the smell of bread baking in the kitchen's oven. The kitchen as very large, with a long table for plenty of elbow room off to one side. There weren't many kitchen cupboards to be seen, for all the dishes and supplies were kept in the pantry, a room the size of the kitchen. The jams made from wild berries the children had picked the summer before were kept here, as were all the vegetables grown in their large garden. (Mrs. Lyle can remember that when the first house burned, the pantry was so full with produce that "you could smell burnt turnips for two or three weeks.")

If company came to call, dinner was a much grander affair served in the dining room down the hall. The main meal of the day was at lunch, but on most days it was simply too much work to cart all of the food down the hall and the family ate in the kitchen.

Another favourite room on the main floor was the parlour, where conversations were enjoyed and evenings fondly remembered. In later years, when the Reynolds started taking in summer guests, their house became known as Horseshoe Lodge and the parlour was a wonderful place to gather. Unfortunately, last summer the lodge shared the fate of its predecessor and now is gone except in memories.

Like all children, Pearl and her siblings would hurry up with the chores so they could devote themselves to play. Young Pearl learned how to milk a cow when she was nine, but she can remember that the sister above her "didn't like going to the stable to do anything," nor did she like doing the dishes. With so many children around, there was always something you could find to do instead.

In the summer, the children were swimming in the lake almost every day, and when it froze in the winter, they still enjoyed having it at their doorstep. There was a huge hill behind their house and the children would spend many afternoons swooshing down it on their sleds, not stopping until they were far out on the ice. But like all great sledding hills, "it wasn't so hot going up." Chances are, the sleds they used were made by Mr. Reynolds, who could only afford to give his children Christmas presents he could make. Inside the house, the girls' dolls were probably sleeping in homemade cradles.

Going to school was something Mrs. Lyle enjoyed all through her youth, and she fondly remembers one of her teachers, Isabelle Gilbert. "She was a great big tall lady" and taught all the grades up to Grade 8. What Mrs. Lyle says was her best attribute was "her tolerance for the children. She was strict but she was fair."

A few years ago, Mrs. Lyle was walking in downtown Minden with her sister, when she recognized the older woman sitting on the bench. "You don't look any different," Mrs. Lyle's former teacher told her. "You were so lost and lonely. I guess if I had any pet it must have been you."

Just before she was to write her entrance exam, young Pearl went to Toronto to help her sick older sister take care of her two children. City life was not for young Pearl, even though two of her sisters said it was the only place to live, but Pearl wanted to stay and help her sister.

The next January, it was discovered that the sister had tuberculosis, and since Pearl was at an age when she was very susceptible to the disease, it was decided she'd go back home while her mother would come to Toronto to nurse the other daughter.

"I had to learn to bake bread and make butter and I was only 15 years old," Mrs. Lyle remembers.

Many of the brothers and sisters had already moved out of the house, but with the Reynolds' propensity for keeping a full house, the work was still very hard.

Her duties ended when her sister died and her mother came home, a very sad time for everyone. With her parent's support, young Pearl decided to go back to school and get her entrance certificate so she could go to the continuation school in Minden.

That doesn't mean she stopped working. World War One was in full swing while young Pearl finished her education. To pay for her room and board during these years, she helped the woman at whose house she was staying. There were always six or seven soldiers boarding there too, and the woman needed Pearl's help after school to make sure they were fed properly and could live in a clean house. One of the soldiers who often came for dinner but who wasn't a guest was Charlie Rumblelow, one of the few WWI veterans still living in the county. Mrs. Lyle lost one brother during the war, and two were to die later from their wounds.

Her highschool completed, young Pearl was approached by the school inspector, Mr. Pentland. "We can give you a permit to teach for three years but then you've got to go back to school," he explained, and she readily accepted his offer. The problem was that teachers with the proper certificates were given preferential treatment. A school had to advertise for a certified teacher, and when it found one, Pearl had to go to another school where they weren't so lucky. In the three years she taught, she taught at three different schools—Hindon Hills, Bob Lake and the Iron Mines school.

Her third school was on the road between Kimmount and Miners Bay, closer to Kimmount. "I liked it, very much and I seemed to make a success of it." It was one of her students, a home girl named Alice Hill, who achieved the top marks in Haliburton and Victoria Counties on that year's entrance exam. Mrs. Lyle has often wondered why all those children came to Canada in the first place and she remembers Alice often cried for the home she was forced to leave behind, although she always admitted afterwards that she was lucky to be living in a good home now.

The secretary of the school was Ed Lyle, and before young Pearl could decide to go back to school to get her certificate, in September of 1917, "I lost my head and got married."

Weddings were not a grand affair in those days, simply because people could not afford it. The young couple took the train to Lindsay, were married, and the next day travelled on to Peterborough for their weekend honeymoon. It was when they arrived back home in Kimmount that the festivities started. Mr. Lyle met them at the train station with a horse and buggy, and along with other friends and family, "wasted a lot of money on rice when we got off the train."

It was at the uncle's house, the only brick one in the surrounding countryside, that the newlyweds made their home. Running a farm was no easy task and it took them two years to raise enough money to build a proper barn where they could house more livestock. Their first child, Bob, did not arrive until seven years after they married. Daughter Jean (Hewitt) followed five years later and Anna (Wilkinson) made the family complete a year and a half after that.

"I used to be able to hitch up the horse and buggy and go into town with my butter and eggs to trade for groceries," Mrs. Lyle remembers of the days on the Kimmount farm. While married women usually didn't work outside the home in those days, there was plenty of work for them to do without going very far. Without the automation there is today, so many of the chores had to be done by hand and there was little money to hire help. Mr. Lyle was a carpenter and had to spend much of his time away from home, where his wife would be expected to keep things running smoothly until his return.

There was one point of her life when Mrs. Lyle couldn't be much help to those around her. It was in 1942, the spring Kimmount was engulfed by flames, that Mrs. Lyle was burning up with rheumatic fever. At one point, doctors weren't sure she'd survive, but she proved just as able to work against sickness as she could against adversity of a financial kind.

On that one April day, she was recuperating at home when they noticed black smoke rising from the direction of Kimmount. Angus Coulter, who also lives at Hyland Crest now, had married Mrs. Lyle's younger sister Lydia, and the two were over for a visit. The Reynolds women stayed at home as their husbands headed off to town to see what they could do to help.

On the mainstreet there was a hotel with a large plate glass window in front. Its roof was engulfed by flames and was destined to end in rubble. But behind the window was a nice piano and the two men were about to break the window to rescue it when the owner's wife came out and shouted "Don't smash that window." The next day, the hotel was in a pile of ashes but the piano which the brother-in-laws had managed to save was standing on the sidewalk.

After retirement, the Lyle's hard work paid off and there were able to spend more time together travelling the countryside and visiting nearly all parts of Canada. They were happy living in their Kimmount home and in 1967, celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary there. That was in September, and on the following New Year's Eve, Mr. Lyle died.

Of course Mrs. Lyle didn't know just what to do at first, but her family was very supportive and for the next 10 years, she managed to stay on the farm with their help. Then she decided to move to some senior citizens apartments in Fenelon Falls before making the move to Hyland Crest three years ago because she was sick.

It would be easy to say that Mrs. Lyle is one of the busiest residents at Hyland Crest. Go to visit her and her room-mate Winnie Barnum, and the two women always have something in their hand. Accustomed to keeping busy in their youth, these women are not about to slow down now.

"If you keep busy, you keep happy," is Mrs. Lyle's simple advice, and because she truly does believe it, she follows it too.

"I can't sit and not do anything," she says, a quilt piece she is sewing tucked into the side of her chair and some knitting lying on the bed. "In the last three weeks I've knit seven pairs of men's socks—in my spare time when I'm not quilting."

Mrs. Lyle's quilts are numbered in the hundreds and can be found all over the country. Her favourite design is water lilies, but she's an able seamstress for just about any design. A daughter is just finishing off the trim of her last quilt and another has just been raffled as a fundraising event.

When she first lived at Hyland Crest, when her family came to visit it was Bert Harrison who wrote up the news in his rhyming fashion. Everyone at the residence as saddened when he died a couple of years ago, and Edna Cowen decided to take over the responsibility. But then she got sick and asked Mrs. Lyle if she would mind taking over for a few weeks. Mrs. Lyle has been at it ever since.

It's a job she really likes, but one for which she wishes she'd get more help. As other newspaper people have found out, you can't write about the news unless someone tells you it's happening. Many residents are good at coming down to her room with reports of the past week. Because she lives downstairs, apart from the main entrance, Mrs. Lyle cannot see the people when they come in and needs these reports to keep her and her readers informed.

Readers of Senior League know that it's not just the other residents who receive visitors. There is frequent mention of a daughter or granddaughter coming to take her out to lunch or for a drive, and like everyone else, she considers these visits to be the highlight of the week.

Another one of her involvements at Hyland Crest is acting as secretary for the Resident's Council. "It sort of keeps you on your toes about what's going on," she says, and while she sometimes finds the work tiring, is glad she is able to help.

Helping others has been a common thread of Mrs. Lyle's life. Her belief that by caring for others you do not have time to be miserable yourself may make her efforts seem a little more selfish, but that's not why she does it. As her daughter Anna says, "She's very generous and just an all-round thoughtful, kind and considerate lady."

ley and Somerville will each receive a total grant of $21,250. The first payments of $17,651 will be used to undertake an engineering study for the repair or upgrading of sewage disposal systems in the village of Coboconk.

These two grants will provide funds to undertake work in the short term to repair existing problems. However, long range planning is also important as we work to preserve our delicate environment. With this in mind, I am pleased that Mr. Bradley will also be providing funds to the County of Victoria to undertake long range planning.

The Ministry of the Environment will provide a maximum of a fifty percent grant toward the preparation of a Waste Management Master Plan for the County. As my colleague has noted, the members of county council should be congratulated for their willingness to work with the provincial ministry to address the issue of waste management.

The Master Plan Program addresses:—the municipal concerns regarding Provincial funding assistance to undertake waste management planning and the costs and time frame associated with the environmental assessment process.—Public concerns of waste management issues through an intensive public participation program which seeks active involvement by the public in the planning process before decisions are made.

The commitment by the elected officials of each of the participating municipalities shows the forward thinking of their Councils in dealing with the issues of waste management.

In closing I am pleased to announce that the Township of Monmouth has completed a Comprehensive Zoning By-law and will be receiving the final instalment on a total grant of $6,670 to assist the municipality in its efforts to ensure successful planning.

one at the end of the second period, on a goal by Jim Winn, and added three more by the five minute mark of the third, by Tim Fry, Rick Wood and Boice with his fourth.

In the last half of the period the motormen came up with four goals to tie the game. Steve Roberts accounted for two, while the singles were netted by Floyd Henry and Jim Burk.

In the other game of the night, Elstone Motors outscored Debler Drillers 6-5, but not before the Drillers netted four unanswered markers to come very close.

Elstones took a 5-0 lead in the first period on goals by Luke Schell with two, Hardy Kraft with two, and a single by Rod Sisson.

Scott Rae got one back for the Drillers mid way through the second period, but Tom Curry extended Elstone's lead to 6-1 with 7:17 left on the clock. It looked like the Drillers were out of the game, but they came back with four goals before time shut their hopes down. Phil Barry accounted for two of the four, while the others were netted by Derrell Stamp and Ken Barry.

COBOCONK NEWS

by Sheila Lake

Congratulations to Eva Polcz and Tim Sleeman, who were married recently and now live in Norland. Tim is the son of Lorne and Isabel Sleeman and Eva is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Michael Polcz of Shadow Lake Cottages.

Mr. and Mrs. Blake McDuff of Gooderham and Susie Bartley of Oshawa, visited Martha Bartley recently, also Leona Jewell.

I enjoyed a visit with Bill and Ann Goode at Queensville on Thursday.

Congratulations to newlyweds Mr. and Mrs. Cliff Jewell. (She is the former Mrs. Art Winterburn.)

The last card games of 1987 for the Coboconk Seniors was held in Coboconk Community Hall on Tuesday evening and winners were: euchre, Frieda Boyce 67, Rae Brock 66, most lone hands, Rae Brock 3, consolation, Jean Thompson 51, gents, Weldon Neal 67, Howard Stewart 64, most lone hands, Bruce Colquhoun 5, consolation, Ron Pearce 47, Bridge, Myron Dyou 5420, Joyce Thompson 4440, consolation, Al Cornielious 990. A lunch followed the card games.

Welcome to our area, the new Anglican Minister, Rev. Dennis Orainville and his wife, Donna Quance.

Rev. Orainville was a hard worker among the underprivileged and street people in Toronto, where he gave out the Gospel Message of love and kindness and eased the misery of many.

The Coboconk Legion annual New Years party and dance is coming up. Music for the dance will be supplied by 'Backwoods' and there will be a lunch after dance and lots of party favours.

Dr. Fred Weir will again be at the organ at the Canadian Imperial Bank of Commerce on Thursday and Friday mornings of December 17 and 18 from 9:15 to 9:45 a.m. There will be lots of sing-a-long carol music so if you are free, come along and be a part of this joyous time.

Jim Chymouth has had

Advent stories big messages of love beyond understanding

As OTHERS SEE IT

They remembered their long life together, the sickness, the angers, the forgiveness; the hurt they had shared; the disappointments in ambition and how the suffering of others had called them out of themselves in service and daily care.

Their hands barely touching, they remembered and quietly thanked God for each other and for the life they had shared.

Then without waiting to clean up the kitchen, in a sudden youthful abandon, and in mature understanding, they lay down together. Two old bodies, holding each other tenderly in love.

In the days of Herod, King of Judea—An old man and an old woman loved each other in the presence of God" and Elizabeth conceived." "The Lord has dealt with me in this way", she reflected, "in the day when He looked to take away my disgrace among men."

Zechariah pondered the angel's message: "You will call his name John and he will go before the Lord in the power of Elijah, to turn the hearts of parents to their children and to return the disobedient to the wisdom of the just, to make ready for the Lord an Advent people, a people prepared!"

The stories of Advent are about God's coming in the barren places of life; His healing touch of our hidden shames; His fullness in our emptiness.

Advent stories heard the coming of God in the flesh of human life: a love beyond our imagining, His love with our loves... which prepares the way for the Lord.

This story begins "In the days of Herod, King of Judea..."; and ends with "a voice crying in the wilderness, 'the Kingdom of God is at hand!'"

The Herods and the faithful voices in the wilderness always meet and clash, but God's rule cannot be spoiled by Kings, for He rules in the hearts of forgotten, unimportant and often old people.

These stories begin with worldly power but end with two old people, hand gently holding hand, falling onto their pillows, breathless, to sleep the sleep of the just.

"You will call his name, John; he will go before the Lord in power... to make ready for the Lord an advent people a people prepared!"

GUILD NOTES

by Shirley Hodgson

WELL, Christmas is quickly approaching—are you ready for it? Or have you been caught up in the excitement of going here and there and never really accomplishing very much. Just slow down sit down and think what is really important.

Please remember the Christmas Sale at the Rails' End Gallery and the Agnes Jamieson Gallery in Minden. Many of the people that have visited these sales this year, have expressed their pleasure with the lovely selection of handcrafted gifts.

A special thank you to all the artists that have contributed their work and a very special thank you to the numerous people that have helped in so many ways to make this sale a success.

Eakins announces more 1988 municipal grants

John Eakins, Minister of Municipal Affairs, has announced a 5.7 percent increase in provincial funding for municipalities under the 1988 Unconditional Grants program.

Unconditional grants in 1988 will total nearly $870 million.

Unconditional grants are payments made by the Ministry of Municipal Affairs to municipalities to help offset each municipality's general operating costs. The funds are used at the discretion of each municipal council.

These payments are in addition to those made by

Have you ever made a Christmas Wish?? Well, the Guild and Gallery Committee have, and some of them have been filled already. They wish to have—china tea cups and saucers, glass serving plates and platters, one glass punch bowl, cutlery especially teaspoons, one staple gun, one saw, and one pair of wire snips.

All donations, whether small or large, will be most welcomed. They have even received some articles they haven't wished for.

While I'm on the subject of items when you are cleaning your cupboards or drawers before or after Christmas—you may come across some valuable items for a new fund—raising idea. Our President, Ginne Muenzel, would like us to participate in the Legion's May Flea Market. So please, save your re-usable articles and let the Gallery staff know what you have to donate.

The organizers of the Haliburton County Fall Studio Tours are calling for artists who are interested in participating in the 1988 Fall Tour which is scheduled for October 1 and 2. If you would like more information please contact Marian Langdon at 457-2434 or Marion Hill at 286-3969.

After much deliberation the Gallery Committee has decided to keep the Gallery open this winter on a trial basis. Alex McLeod, believes he has the heating problem licked. Elene is busy organizing travel talks and film nights as well as work shops to keep the Guild active through the long winter days and nights.

The General Meetings are being re-established. The first General Meeting will be January 13, 1988, at 7:30 p.m. and it will be sponsored by the Choral Group. It will take place at the Rails' End Gallery. Everyone is welcome to attend.

Minden Legion looks for land to build its own hall

Minden's newly chartered Legion has begun a campaign to construct a building of its own, and has asked Anson, Hindon and Minden council to consider allowing the structure on municipal land.

Legion representatives Doug Seith and Dave McAdam asked council last Thursday if any suitable municipal land could be made available.

Reeve Sinc Nesbitt said he could not think of any municipally owned property outside the flood plain area of the community — where building restrictions are tight — that might accommodate a legion building. He suggested a site below Hyland Crest home, but noted it too would be subject to flood plain restrictions.

McAdam said the building committee would like to find a site close to the arena grounds, because the Legion places a large emphasis on youth oriented activity.

Nesbitt was reluctant to consider turning over fairground land for a legion building however. He said the land has been "nibbled away" for other uses in the past, and the present council will not allow that to continue.

One site suggested by McAdam was the old curling club quonset building on the fair grounds presently used by Minden's lawn bowlers and the county fair board. Reeve Nesbitt said it might be possible to get funding assistance for a new building that would accommodate lawn bowling and fair displays as well as the Minden Legion.

While the matter could not be taken further, councillor Verne Graham assured Seith and McAdam that council would "give it every consideration and see if we can work something out."

Minden deputy questions procedure

Minden deputy reeve Bern Berry balked at approving a rezoning application to facilitate construction of a new hardware store in the village last Thursday on the grounds that the planning advisory board had not yet rendered an opinion.

John Petney is proposing to construct a 30,000 square foot hardware and retail lumber outlet on land adjacent to the IGA road at the south entrance to the village. Clerk Mary Mysyk told council that it would take a minimum of 65 days for the rezoning application to be approved if there are no objections from the public.

Municipal law enforcement officer Peter Oomen said council could consider the request and if it wished, approve it pending an opinion from the planning advisory committee.

Since council did not have another meeting scheduled in December, it was felt that delaying a decision until January would hold up the Petney project unnecessarily. However Berry said he would be willing to meet December 20 to consider the matter after the planning advisory committee had reviewed it.

Berry was over-ruled by the rest of council, but asked that his 'nay' vote on principle, be registered.

Road request

members of council are concerned about has several sharp bends and hills that restrict line of sight more severely than elsewhere on the highway.

Council agreed to ask the MTC to improve the worst section of the road "in an effort to bring it into a safe and reasonable condition in 1988."

Senior Citizens hold a Christmas party

WILBERFORCE NEWS

by Winnie Schofield

This is the most friendly, funny, frenzied time of the year with its smiles, shopping sprees, parcels going and coming and its numerous social gatherings.

One happy event was the Monmouth Senior Citizen Christmas party, held at the Harcourt Community Centre. Everyone enjoyed a superb turkey dinner, cooked to perfection and served by the Harcourt Ladies group, assisted by head waiter Ed Loft. Time passed quickly with friendly conversation and carol singing. The Club will not meet again until January 12 when future meetings will be held in the Tory Hill Recreation Centre until renovations taking place at the Lloyd Watson Centre in Wilberforce are completed.

A turkey bonspiel was held at the curling rink on Saturday with many new members taking part. The rink of Reg Schofield finished in first place, Mike Collins won second, Roger Ellis third and Don Meharrie was fourth. A fine meal rewarded the players. Coming up early in January is a bonspiel of mixed players.

Every Saturday the Monmouth Arena is filled with action as the Tri County teams take over. This is good hockey so attendance at games is up. On Saturday Maynooth was victorious with a five to three win over Wilberforce. A late game gave Martins the edge over Hastings with a six to three win.

Many young people have discovered the fun of a free skate that takes place every Sunday afternoon at the Arena, a good place to have fun with your friends. A well stocked snack bar provides refreshments.

Highland Grove celebrated their last Euchre games for the year with a Christmas party. High for the evening went to Betty Stevenson for the ladies and to Sulo Soper for the men. Lone hands to Ruth Shawnessy and Wally Baker. Lows to Elsie Lewis and Irwin Bowen. Travellers prize to Mable Leaf. For this special occasion the ladies had prepared a lunch. Gifts were exchanged. Our most generous resident Bob Parks donated lottery tickets that were won by Wally Baker, Mel Hamilton, Phyllis Bowen and Elsie Lewis. A sing song was enjoyed with the talented Elsie Lewis at the piano.

The Topaz bowling team reached the dizzy heights of fourth place which is going to be a difficult position to maintain. Ida Holmes was a great help with a terrific game well over 200.

The last day this year that the Monmouth Library will be open is Tuesday December 22. It will re-open on Saturday January 2.

Christmas will soon be here and your branch is gearing up for the festive season. Decorated trees, tinsel and garland are beginning to appear throughout the building. This Saturday afternoon your branch is giving you a chance to win your Christmas bird. It's the annual Christmas turkey roll. You can have a lot of fun and you could be a lucky winner.

The weekly 50/50 draw is very popular and growing in size and participation. Drop in to the branch and get your tickets on the lucky draw. All proceeds from the draw goes to the Building Expansion Fund.

Once again let me remind you of the New Year's Eve Dance at Branch 129. The big band sound of the Frank Howard Orchestra will have your feet eager to move and the delicious buffet meal will have you groaning with satisfaction. Tickets are only $30 per couple and only 150 tickets will be sold. Don't miss out on this great time.

This will be my last Branch 129 News article for a year or so. Because of other obligations, I am unable to continue to fulfill my executive duties with Branch 129. I have enjoyed my two and a half years working with and for the members of Branch 129 and I thank each and every one of you for all the kindness and comradeship shown to me.

Once Joan and I get well established in our new venture, I would like to again serve on your executive.

On behalf of my wife and myself, have a very Merry Christmas and may you have all the best of everything in the new year.

DORSET NEWS

The sympathy of the community is extended to the family of Allan Griffin, who died at Huntsville Hospital on Saturday November 28. Mr. Griffin had been ill for some time. He and his wife Annie, lived in Dorset during their married life and raised their family here. Everyone feels

Kinmount seniors gather

KINMOUNT NEWS

by Millie Moss

Sympathy this week to Betty, all family and friends of Eric Hardman of Kinmount who died very suddenly while far from home on holiday.

Percy Sherman is in hospital and Herb Hancock is in St. Joseph's Hospital in Peterborough but it's good to hear Vi Young is home from hospital in time for the holidays.

I'm told Irene McIlwain recently celebrated a birthday with a large group of well wishers at the home of Betty and Bill Scott. Happy belated wishes to you Irene!

Kinmount Seniors held their Christmas dinner on Wednesday December 9 with some 41 people attending. Deacon Bob Ferguson and his wife Bernadette were introduced around by Helen Hickey. Everyone thoroughly enjoyed the roast beef dinner followed by a sing song which was accompanied by Mr. Griffiths at the piano. There was a gift exchange and a toast presented to Verlie Young as being the oldest person there. You'd never know it Verlie!

Lil Platt had baked a birthday cake for the more than 80 people who were there. All workers were brought out and thanked for a job well done and then followed a dance to the music of Marg Swanton on guitar, Norm Graham, violin and Mr. Griffiths at piano. The Legion Hall was beautifully decorated as were the tables and Mr. and Mrs. Griffiths received poinsettia plants for their part in the musical evening. I've been told I missed a really great evening.

Norland Seniors held their Christmas Bazaar and Tea in the Norland Community Hall on Thursday afternoon, December 10. Again, their hall and tables were lovely in the decor of the Season and a good crowd showed up for the affair. Buryel Kipp of Norland won the draw and received a gorgeous cake decorated in the style of a lady in a hoop skirt. Those ladies sure can bake! The folks over that way are still selling tickets to be drawn New Years Eve on a lovely hand made quilt, a beautiful knit scarf or shawl and a pair of hand made leather book ends. Tickets are still available from any of the Seniors in that area but you could call Adrian Lee at 454-3489.

Tuesday night euchre December 8 at St. James Hall, results: ladies high, Helen Byne, who also held most lone hands, ladies low, Joan Hyams, mens high, Lyle Anderson, mens low, Bill Wilson.

Doris McLeod of Bolsover was the lucky winner of $290 on the 57th number called at the Kirkfield bingo on Tuesday December 8.

Results of euchre Thursday December 10 at Kinmount Railroad Drop-In Centre: mens high, Harry Stuart, who also held most lone hands (six), mens low, John Hickey, ladies high, Ruth Menard, ladies low, Ruby Schell. The Railroad Station has also been very prettily decorated for the Season.

The Cobocok Legion held their Christmas Bingo on Thursday December 10 with a large crowd present. There was a gift exchange, Santa came in full of vim and vigor or something! Free coffee and goodies, door prizes and bags of fruit and candy for everyone. Lots of fun!

Now, a few dates coming up: Friday December 18, turkey bingo at Kinmount Legion begins at 7:30 p.m.

Kinmount Public School present their annual Christmas Concert at Kinmount Community Hall Wednesday December 16 at 7:30 p.m. Turkey Bingo at Kirkfield Lions Hall in Kirkfield on Tuesday December 15 starts at 7:30 p.m.

A Christmas Craft along with a story and goodies for the kids to be held at Kinmount Library on Tuesday December 22 from 10:00 a.m. to 12 noon.

Cole Brothers of Cobocok will provide entertainment for the New Years Eve. Dance for Legion members and guests at Kinmount Legion, New Years Eve. from 9:00 p.m. There will be lunch, prizes and novelties.

Lucky draw winners at Cobocok Legion Bingo were first: Vi Greer of Coby who hugged her cabbage patch doll to her, second prize was a lovely hand made afghan and was won by Bill Law of Norland and George Shepherd, RR1, Kirkfield, took the third prize.

I hope Albert Crego is feeling better soon.

Well folks, stay well and happy, read the Echo and give me a call at 488-2353.

Monmouth council briefs

Monmouth Township could met recently and considered the following matters.

Council requested that Glamorgan Township winter maintain the Madill Road extension as it is part of the Monmouth road system.

Council accepted the tender of Bronson Petroleum for the supply and delivery of diesel and furnace fuel.

Dave Fideau was hired for the position of assistant arena caretaker.

By-law 87-15 to write off uncollectible taxes was passed.

The Wilberforce and District Business Mens' Association was granted permission to hold a Winter Carnival, February 12, 13 and 14, 1988 and to use the Monmouth Arena, Monmouth Curling Club, Lloyd Watson Centre and Monmouth Recreation Centre.

the loss of a long-time resident of the community.

The ladies who worked so diligently preparing for the Christmas Bazaar were delighted with the results of their efforts. It was a lovely evening, except for the light snowfall, which is quite different from many Bazaar nights when stormy weather was the condition everyone had to contend with. There was a good turn out of folks who purchased the many gift items and Christmas baking offered at the various tables. A big thank you to all of those who put forth the effort to knit, sew, bake and do craft work for the sale and to the kind people who patronized the sale.

We were happy to have the use of rooms in the public school, which worked out very satisfactorily.

Many thanks to the Principal, Mrs. Ruth McLennan and to the Haliburton Board of Education. As is well known, the Dorset Community Centre, was used for these functions, has been torn down and the new one should be in use before Bazaar time rolls around again.

The Cedar Narrows Restaurant is opening up under new management on December 11. According to their flyer they will be open Friday to Sunday during the winter months. We wish them the best of luck.

Nearly everyone is in favour of going to Heaven; but many are hoping they'll live long enough to see an easing of the entrance requirements.

H.H. Put a solution of equal parts of white vinegar and water on salt stained boots to remove the ugly white marks.

On December 18 in the Community Centre. Phone Sharon Upton for details, 754-2288.

Congratulations to Pam and Derek Rolfe, who despite their Stanhope involvement, are Guilford residents. We are proud of their award as citizens of the year. Long may they enjoy life here and their interests continue in the community.

Ray and Norma Sisson have reason to be proud of their family these days; in particular Kristine and Darren. Kristine recently graduated with a Masters in Health Science. Darren is now a Master Corporal with the Royal Canadian Regiment and is presently with the armed forces in London, Ontario.

Lloyd Priest recently travelled to Kitchener and had a look at Mennonite farming areas around that district.

Sunday afternoon at St. Andrew's at 2 p.m. is the Sunday School's chance to shine as they present the Christmas story in a tableau under the direction of their teachers, Cindy Rodley, Janet Bain and Sandy Stevens.

How often does the National Film Board take an interest in West Guilford?

Once in a lifetime, it appears or at least once in the lifetime of Elva Cooper.

On Thursday, director of filming, Maureen Judge and her crew of four descended with cameras, lights, and various intricate equipment pieces. Their object was to record on film Elva Cooper's contributions to WWI as one of the many women who worked then in a munitions factory. As director Maureen Judge asked questions and encouraged response, Elva talked facing the cameras and crew. It was enlightening to be in on hearing her reactions to going out into the working world as a teenager away from home for the first time. Lindsay experience seems to have been kind to her on the whole. Her memories of it are clear, full and often humorous.

She obviously delighted the crew with her brightness and every one of them appreciated her co-operation and patience as they prepared to film. It did take some time to set up lighting, stands and pose items on the table as well as to rearrange some furniture.

All of this was accomplished by the

Municipality of Dysart et al NOTICE

IN THE MATTER OF THE ONTARIO HERITAGE ACT, 1974, S.O. CHAPTER 122 AND IN THE MATTER OF THE LANDS AND PREMISES KNOWN MUNICIPALLY AS BANKS STORE, IN THE VILLAGE OF HALIBURTON, IN THE PROVINCE OF ONTARIO.

NOTICE OF INTENTION TO DESIGNATE

Take notice that the Council of the Corporation of the Municipality of Dysart et al intends to designate the property, including lands and buildings, at the following municipal address as a property of architectural and/or historical value or interest under Part IV of The Ontario Heritage Act, 1974, S.O. Chapter 122. Banks Store, Pine Street, Haliburton, Ontario K0M 1S0.

SHORT STATEMENT OF THE REASONS FOR THE PROPOSED DESIGNATION

The store created to service the needs of one Pine Logging firm remains our best link with that part of our original main industry. It is separated in its location from the influence of modern building materials and this retains its unique style in a one of a kind place in our history.

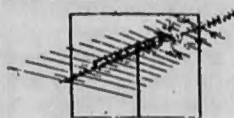

The presence of this building prevents the question being asked in what setting and method was shopping carried out in the village past. The efficiency of service to customers has been equal in a store of high ceilings, counters and shelving of the 1800's. Successive owners have believed the retention of the past has served their need of profit and service to their customers. Further, the building has proven to be a highlight of the Heritage Walks carried out in the village.

Notice of objection to the designation may be served on the Clerk within thirty days of December 11, 1987.

DATED at Haliburton, Ontario, this 11th day of December, 1987.

Minden council wraps up full agenda

Anson, Hindon and Minden council met last Thursday and considered the following matters: Municipal By-law Enforcement Officer, Peter Oomen, presented an application and drawings to Council prior to Planning Advisory Committee approval because the Planning Advisory Committee meeting is scheduled for December 16, 1987, after the Council meeting. This application approval from Council would be subject to approval from the Planning Advisory Committee also. Council had no objection to the Pentney re-zoning of Part of Lot 1, Concession A, Township of Minden, to Commercial, subject to the approval of the Planning Advisory Committee.

POLICE NEWS

from Minden OPP

During the week of December 7 to 13, officers of the Minden Detachment investigated 50 general occurrences. A total of 17 traffic accidents were investigated with one minor injury. Most accidents were weather related.

Disturbance

David Brodie, age 34, of no fixed address, has been charged with Causing a Disturbance by impeding pedestrians and asking for money. These incidents occurred over the last week on Minden Main Street. Brodie has also been charged with Breach of Probation.

Thefts

Stolen in the County in the last week were: Minden homemade box trailer—black; Highway 35, south of Mountain Lake - cash, jewelry (5 gold chains); Minden—gas from Minden auto parts; Haliburton—vehicle licence plates NX3223; Davis Lake alcohol, .177 pellet pistol, flashlight; Buckhorn Road—Alcohol, propane tank and light; Minden Chrysler—Pioneer Cassette deck AM/FM with 2 JBL speakers.

Criminal Charges Laid

An investigation into a complaint of animal maltreatment has resulted in police laying several unrelated criminal charges. The original complaint was at the end of October 1987. Richard Brown, age 29, of Pine Lake, has been charged with Possession of a Prohibited Weapon, Possession of Stolen Property and Possession of a Narcotic.

Clayton Cameron has advised Council that the IGA Road along this property has not been assumed by the Township. Council recommended that a By-law be set up to assume the road and the one-foot reserve on Part 3, be transferred to the Township.

Roy Windover presented Council with a preliminary agreement for the next phase of the development for 24 lots. Council will review the agreement and if appropriate, a by-law will be passed to accept the agreement.

John Lethbridge was present regarding some concerns about the personal items of Stanworth resident's that had to be moved out of a store room where there is no sprinkler system. Another concern of the Housing Authority was the shopsmith woodworking machine of Herb Lee's—it is kept in a room with no lock, therefore safety was the main concern. The Housing Authority has asked Lee to move the machine to a locked room. Also, if resident's have a problem they should direct them to Lethbridge, council was told. Deputy-Reeve Bern Berry, Mr. Casey and Mr. Lethbridge are to meet and discuss alternative methods of storage.

Dave McAdam and Doug Seath of the Legion Property Committee presented a memorandum to Council as to what requirements in property they are looking for. Reeve Nesbitt advised the Legion members that there was some land behind McMahon's Feed Store that may be available. David McAdam asked if there was land available by the Fairgrounds. Council advised that the quanset was used by the Senior Lawn Bowlers and other groups. The land that was donated to the Legion is up the Bobcaygeon Road, and the sewer and water system is relatively close to the site. As to the approximate costs of hook-up, the chief operator of Minden Waterworks, Gene Newell, could supply the figures. Also, Reeve Nesbitt stated that if the Legion contacted Roads Superintendent, Clayton Cameron, he could arrange to have the backhoe do some test holes on the donated property to see where the rock hill goes to.

Minutes of the Museum Committee meeting of November 11, 1987, were adopted as circulated to all members.

Council agreed to provide the following assistance to the organizers of the 1988 Annual Minden Sled Dog Derby:—the closure of Main Street, from CIBC corner to CHACE at 7:00 a.m., Saturday morning until Sunday night, approximately 36 hours; half-closure (right-hand side) of Sunnybrook Bridge, lane to be marked with a berm of snow;—use of grader and front-end loader at municipal cost, (as in 1987);—opening of the Downtown Parkette for a dog lot parking area;—placement of snow on Main Street and race course up to Pat Murphy's during race time; co-ordination of snow clearing and placement with Sled Dog Derby Trail Boss, Steve Loughheed;—cash grant of $1,012.50 being the 1988 Municipal Grant as originally discussed;—suggestions that a letter be sent to restaurants, etc., as per tours and Sled Dog races;—Council to attend Drivers Meeting at the Rockcliffe Tavern, time and date will be forwarded at a later date by Val Loughheed;—municipal flag to be used for the backdrop where all press releases will be held.

Council agreed to waive the rental charges for the use of the Hall for Remembrance Day Ceremonies. Recorded Vote: Bob Sisson nay; Bern Berry—Nay; S.G. Nesbitt -Yea; Verne Graham—Yea; Royce Miller—Yea.

By-law No. 87-80 to authorize an agreement with William Simmerson for the maintenance of the Scotch Line Landfill Site was passed.

By-law 87-81 to authorize an agreement with J. & B. Cleaning (Jim McMahon), for caretaking of municipal buildings was passed.

By-law 87-82 to appoint a Committee of Adjustment was passed.

By-law 87-83 to amend By-law No. 86-26 of the Townships of Anson, Hindon and Minden was passed.

By-law 87-84 to adopt an amendment to the Official Plan was passed.

By-law 87-85 to regulate the rates of remuneration of certain employees of the Corporation of the Townships of Anson Hindon and Minden was passed.

By-law 87-86 to establish the rates of remuneration and to provide for expense allowances for Members of Council was passed.

THANK YOU

The family of the late Marion G. Sweetland, Kinmount would like to thank everyone for the floral tributes, donations to the Canadian Diabetes Association and messages of sympathy. A special thank you to the nurses, staff and Dr. Hartwick of the Haliburton Extendedicare for their care and attention. Also to the Rev. J. Morrison and the Fawcett's Funeral Home, Cobocok. Thank you. Jack Sweetland and Family. 27-B-16

Words truly cannot express how much we appreciate the overwhelming generosity and kindness of the people of Haliburton and Victoria Counties. We've been given such enormous support and aid from our families, friends, acquaintances and even from those we don't know. We're very touched by everyone's concern. What better place to tell? We'd like to offer special thanks to Dave and Laura, Bourbon Cowboy, Magoo and all the other "jammers", the wonderful staff of the Rockcliffe, and, of course, everyone in attendance, for making our benefit dance the success it was. A Good Time Was Had By All! We're so very grateful for all donations, but above all, we feel loved and that, more than anything, has made this whole thing more bearable. Thanks to each and every one of you for our new beginning. Jacqueline and Murray Coburn. 27-B-16

THANK YOU

We wish to extend to you and your families in the surrounding area a very Merry Christmas and God's richest blessings in the New Year. With Christmas Love, Maurice and Carol Bradley. 27-P-16

SENIOR LEAGUE

by Pearl Lyle

Hello Readers: The weather is really nice for this time of year. We may not have snow for Christmas after all. Our birthdays for

December are as follows: Lydia McNeil, Lily Curry, Annie Schultz, Lily Hogg and Art Young. Many happy more! Mrs. Jarvis had several freelancers who were crew for this particular National Film Board documentary. Cathy Chamberlain, B.A., from Guelph and an M.A. in Journalism from Western University took the still pictures.

Arelyn Weissman managed the sound equipment entirely. (To get this part right even the fridge and freezer had to be temporarily disconnected). Arelyn has recently won her second Gemini Award.

Kim Derko did the actual posing and photography. She is a graduate of Ontario College of Arts and hails originally from Vancouver.

Heidi Losi, camera assistant, managed the measurement of lighting, adjustment of cameras. She too seemed to be always where she was needed when she was needed.

Mother herself kept the smile and 'that twinkle' about her as Arelyn called it. She also started the crew with the suggestion that she tell it all differently from what she had at the Lindsay filming! However, she kept the details consistent and the crew kept saying "fine", "great", or "terrific". Their satisfaction was evident at the end of about four hours work.

Eventually everything was dismantled, taken out to the van, and furniture righted. All of us then enjoyed a cup of tea with Christmas Cake made by daughter Shirley. The crew departed after leaving a small gift for their hosts and star, Elva Cooper.

guests last week. They were Mr. and Mrs. Ray Faulkner of Brampton and Mr. and Mrs. William Stuart of Cameron. Bert Harrison has enjoyed having several of his family in to see him. Angus Coulter had his son Leslie and his wife Emily, and Mrs. Cora Hogg call on him. They also called on me.

I am sorry to report two of our residents are still on the sick list, Edith Welch and Joachim Gauthier. We wish them a speedy recovery.

Our services last Sunday were by Rev. J. Burgess and on Tuesday by Rev. Fast from Minden Gospel Church.

I'm sorry for the mistake Mrs. Hunter, I know now it was your grandson instead of your son who came to see you. I will try to do better in the future.

I had my grandson Frank Wilkinson and his little son Brian from Ajax to call on me. My daughter Anna Gordon also was here.

On Thursday afternoon tea was brought in by the Ladies from Lutterworth Estates.

Area churches plan many special services

LISTED below are some of the special Christmas services that will be held in our local churches.

Sunday December 20 at 7 p.m.—The annual Parish Carol Service at St. George's Anglican Church. The message and music of Christmas led by the choir of St. George's and readers, will conclude with the musical drama "Bethlehem—Everybody's Hometown" which was so well received last year.

Monday December 21 at 7 p.m. at the Full Gospel Lighthouse, a Christmas program, which features other provincial ministries for specific services such as roads, transit, sanitary sewers, libraries and social services. The total of all provincial transfers to municipalities in 1988 will exceed $4 billion.

This year's increase in the unconditional grants

a play "That's Just Not What I Expected."

Christmas Eve—December 24 at 6:45 p.m.—At St. George's Anglican Church, the choir will present a beautiful "Choral Prelude to Christmas" before the service of Holy Communion which follows at 7:30 p.m.

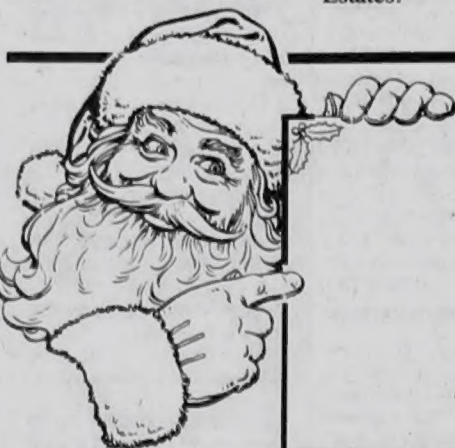

Eagle Lake Community Church—7:30 p.m.—Christmas Eve Service.

Haliburton United—7:30 p.m.—Carol Service and Communion.

is almost a full percentage point higher than the 1987 increase of 4.9 percent.

"The increased funding will enable municipalities to cope with normal cost increases while holding mill rate increases to modest levels," Eakins said.

DON'T FORGET!!

Santa Claus will be at the store this Saturday from 2:00 to 4:00 p.m.
